The Education Invasion Joy Pullmann, 2017-03-14 Most Americans had no idea what Common Core was in 2013 according to polls But it had been creeping into schools nationwide over the previous three years and children were feeling its effects They cried over math homework so mystifying their parents could not help them even in elementary school They read motley assortments of informational text instead of classic literature They dreaded the high stakes tests in unfamiliar formats that were increasingly controlling their classrooms How did this latest and most sweeping reform of American education come in mostly under the radar Joy Pullmann started tugging on a thread of reports from worried parents and frustrated teachers and it led to a big tangle of history and politics intrigue and arrogance She unwound it to discover how a cabal of private foundation honchos and unelected public officials cooked up a set of rules for what American children must learn in core K 12 classes and how the Obama administration pressured states to adopt them Thus a federalized education scheme took root despite legal prohibitions against federal involvement in curriculum Common Core and its testing regime were touted as an absolute game changer in public education yet the evidence so far suggests that kids are actually learning less under it Why then was such a costly and disruptive agenda imposed on the nation s schools Who benefits And how can citizens regain local self governance in education so their children s minds will be fed a more nourishing intellectual diet and be protected from the experiments of emboldened bureaucrats The Education Invasion offers answers and remedies

The Important Role of the Early School Years for Reading, Writing and Math Development: Assessment and Intervention at School Entry Christoph Weber, Martin

Schöfl, Susanne Seifert, Natalie Förster, 2025-12-01 School entry is a critical life event for young children. Students begin this new phase of their lives with very different abilities due to their individual characteristics, previous experiences, and education. While some children hardly know any letters or numbers, others can already read, write, and calculate quite fluently. To optimally support young learners according to their respective starting conditions, teachers must recognize students' learning prerequisites and adapt instruction to students' needs. To this end, both valid and economical assessments as well as effective and differentiated interventions are needed. This Research Topic addresses new developments in early assessments and assessment-based interventions around the time of school entry from the last year before enrollment until second grade. In particular, this Research Topic aims to bring together research that directly contributes to assessing children's difficulties and providing evidence-based support. We highly welcome new innovative approaches from the fields of education, didactics, and psychology that focus on the assessment and assessment-based instruction in reading, writing, and maths. Any empirical studies that help to improve the assessment and assessment-based interventions for the competencies mentioned are welcome. We are looking for empirical quantitative or qualitative studies dealing with the target group of children around the age of school entry, last year of kindergarten to second grade elementary school, that include at least one of the following topics: the presentation or testing of new assessment procedures that focus on performance in and prerequisites for reading, writing, and maths; assessment-based interventions, both whole class or individual approaches in reading, writing, and maths; the co-development of sub-skills in reading, writing, and maths; and consequences for assessment and intervention. Please note that manuscripts without prior submission of an abstract will not be considered for the research topic. Get Set, Go!
