The Paris Framework for Climate Change Capacity Building Mizan R Khan,J. Timmons Roberts,Saleemul Huq,Victoria Hoffmeister,2018-04-09 The Paris Framework for Climate Change Capacity Building pioneers a new era of climate change governance performing the foundational job of clarifying what is meant by the often ad hoc one off uncoordinated ineffective and unsustainable practices of the past decade described as capacity building to address climate change As an alternative this book presents a framework on how to build effective and sustainable capacity systems to meaningfully tackle this long term problem Such a reframing of capacity building itself requires means of implementation The authors combine their decades long experiences in climate negotiations developing climate solutions climate activism and peer reviewed research to chart a realistic roadmap for the implementation of this alternative framework for capacity building As a result this book convincingly makes the case that universities as the highest and sustainable seats of learning and research in the developing countries should be the central hub of capacity building there This will be a valuable resource for students researchers and policy makers in the areas of climate change and environmental studies Investing in Reproductive, Maternal, Newborn, Child, and Adolescent Health in Uganda Elizabeth Asege Ekochu,Julia Mensah,Rogers Ayiko,Stephen Kisembe Kiirya,Brendan Michael Hayes,Collins Chansa,Richard Crabbe,Grace Murindwa,Marc DeFrancis,2024-03-22 In Uganda conditions in reproductive maternal newborn child and adolescent health RMNCAH remain the primary drivers of morbidity and mortality accounting for 60 percent of years of life lost The high burden of these conditions can be attributed to a poor quality of care resulting from inadequate financial human and material resources compounded by weak multisectoral coordination. Moreover, the country's high population growth rate and a young population imply that RMNCAH service delivery will continue to dominate health sector reforms even with the increasing prevalence of noncommunicable and infectious diseases. Over the past two decades, Uganda has focused on improving the quality of RMNCAH service delivery, leading to declines in the maternal, infant, and under-five mortality ratios and the increased use of modern contraception among married women. However, the neonatal mortality and teenage pregnancy rates have stagnated, and the low civil registration of births and deaths remains challenging. Investing in Reproductive, Maternal, Newborn, Child, and Adolescent Health in Uganda: What Have We Learned and Where Do We Go from Here comprises 12 studies conducted as part of the RMNCAH Operational Research Program, drafted between 2019 and 2021 and finalized and disseminated in October 2022 across 45 districts of Uganda, with funding from Sweden and the World Bank. These studies underscore important lessons learned and offer suggestions for enhancing the delivery of RMNCAH interventions. Each chapter represents one study and discusses service delivery, the health workforce, financing, health information systems, and governance and leadership. Two appendixes summarize key findings and recommendations and explain the roles of key stakeholders in the RMNCAH Operational Research Program.

A Practitioner's Guide to Supporting Graduate and Professional Students Valerie A. Shepard, April L. Perry, 2022-02-24. This guide helps faculty and student affairs practitioners better serve graduate and professional school students as they navigate what can be an isolating, taxing, and unfamiliar context. Providing actionable strategies as well as a common language for practitioners to advocate for themselves and for their students, this book is a quick start manual that defines current issues around graduate and professional student development. Drawing together current resources and research around post-baccalaureate student outcomes, this book explores the diverse student needs of graduate and professional students and provides a clear understanding of their social, personal, and psychological development and how to support their success. Case studies showcase specific examples of practice, including a holistic development model for graduate training, integrating academic, personal, professional, and career development needs; promising practices for engagement, a diversity, equity, and inclusion approach to access and outcomes; how graduate schools can be important partners to student affairs professionals; and examples of assessment in action. This book provides tools, resources, communication strategies, and actionable theory to practice connections for practitioners, professionals, and faculty at all levels who work to support post-baccalaureate student thriving. Appendix available for download online at www.routledge.com/9780367639884 on the tab that is entitled Support Material.

Wildcheck - Assessing the risks and opportunities of trade in wild plant ingredients Schindler, C., Heralt, E., Drinkwater, E., Timoshyna, A., Muir, G., Walter, S., Leaman, D.J., Schippmann, U., 2022-04-22. Thousands of consumer products around the world contain ingredients obtained from wild plants. Wild harvest accounts for some or all the harvest of the great majority of plant species in trade between 60 90 percent Wild harvested plants often come from the most biodiverse ecosystems on earth and many have been used traditionally or by local communities for generations While these products have global markets and provide critical sources of income they can also have deep ties to particular cultures and places Demand for wild plant ingredients is growing rapidly having grown by over 75 percent in value over the past two decades Thousands of harvested species are at risk mainly from a combination of overharvest and habitat loss of the 21 percent of medicinal and aromatic plant species whose threat status has been assessed 9 percent are considered threatened with extinction Despite their ubiquity importance and the threats facing them wild plant ingredients are often obscured from consumers and escape companies due diligence due to a lack of awareness and traceability Best practice standards exist but have yet to capture a significant portion of the market This report aims to address these challenges by making information on a selection of flagship wild plant ingredients the Wild Dozen readily available and easy to understand By offering this information without obligation to a specific prescription for follow up action e g through certification or policy change it is hoped that a wide range of users will access the report as a first step towards responsible sourcing Along with a broader update on the state of wild plants trade the report provides a profile on each of the Wild Dozen species summarising key facts on production and trade Each profile contains a traffic light risk rating on biological and social factors along with an overview of opportunities for responsible sourcing The information is aimed at industry consumers policy makers investors and practitioners concluding with a summary of what these various stakeholders can do to contribute to a sectoral shift towards responsible sourcing of wild plant ingredients
