Thus Until Emilia Ilieva, Reuben Matheka, 2025-08-04 Thus Until A History of Egerton University is a thorough historical chronological and well researched account of Egerton University from a whites only college when it started in 1939 through to the expansion it has experienced over the years culminating in being a full university More than any other university in Kenya Egerton has a long and colourful history but like all the other universities it has suffered from the political economic and financial challenges of the time especially since the double intake of the 1990s Chapter One provides the required background to the study highlighting agricultural and educational policies and steering away from the Happy Valley hype so characteristic of the period The reader will learn about the Egerton family in Chapter Two and particularly about Lord Egerton himself and the colonial circumstances within which he lived The chapter dispels some of the popularly held myths about him Chapter Three deals with the beginnings of the college and the various structural and curriculum experiments tried out and the kind of enrolment and students it experimented with as an all white establishment The chapter ends with Africans beginning to agitate for change With great attention to detail the later chapters put the university in a broader local and international context thereby increasing its relevance to society A History of Egerton University though heavily footnoted and with a detailed bibliography is written in a simple easy flowing and accessible style

Cultural Impact on Conflict Management in Higher Education Nancy T. Watson, Lei Xie, Matthew J. Etchells, 2018-07-01

Cultural Impact on Conflict Management in Higher Education shares information regarding conflict management and resolution in higher education from a global perspective. In this book we introduced many conflict resolution methods from different regions in the world. You can borrow some successful strategies and examine the differences and similarities between contexts. The book shares a conflict resolution model which may direct the reader to start thinking about addressing and managing conflicts from different levels of organizations. This book is a collective work of authors coming from all over the world. We chose higher education as the context because it is a place where diverse thoughts, perspectives, and people come together. Because of the potential richness of diversity on a college campus, the opportunity for conflicts occurs. Managing conflict does not work when there is a one-way only approach model for addressing conflict. Some conflict resolution encompasses multiple dimensions: a) one's personal beliefs or beliefs about an issue; b) an individual's personal history in terms of how the conflict was perceived as something to be discussed or not; c) work culture of the conflict where if one has a conflict, the person or unit is messing up or there is a problem; d) the unconscious strategies of face saving, trying to maintain one's image; e) social hierarchies or relationships; and f) the diversity dimensions and issues that may be present.

Regionalization of African Higher Education Jane Knight, Emnet Tadesse Woldegiorgis, 2017-04-17

Growth in the scope, scale, and importance of higher education regionalization should not be underestimated or ignored. Africa, like Asia, Europe, and Latin America, is promoting deeper cooperation among higher education bodies and institutions across the continent and focusing more attention on Pan-African and sub-regional harmonization of policies and programmes. This is the first book which brings together diverse scholars and policy experts to examine key aspects and challenges of African higher education regionalization. Chapters examine the progress and prospects of core regionalization issues and strategies such as academic mobility, quality assurance, recognition of qualifications, research centres and networks, curriculum and competencies, and regional academic programmes. Other chapters discuss important themes such as the relationship between regionalization, internationalization, and Africanization; historical antecedents and perspectives; an analytical model to understand functional, organizational, and political approaches to Africa's higher education regionalization; and the influence of the Bologna process on the African Union's Strategy for the Harmonization of Higher Education Programmes. Together, these chapters provide a comprehensive overview of efforts by the African Union, sub-regional higher education associations such as IUCEA, SARUA, and CAMES, Pan-African organizations and actors, key research networks and centres of excellence, and the involvement or dependence on external actors and funders, especially from Europe. Fundamentally, the book asks the question: whether higher education regionalization in Africa is more rhetoric than reality. It discusses the progress to date on specific themes, identifies historical, political, sustainability, and funding challenges, and concludes that while the impacts of regionalization efforts have not been fully realized there is cautious optimism for the future

Contextualizing and Organizing Contingent Faculty Ishmael I. Munene, 2018-02-15 Contextualizing and Organizing Contingent Faculty: Reclaiming Academic Labor in Universities seeks to develop a counterculture that eschews the neoliberal ideology and interlocking market values in higher education. More than merely lamenting the disruptive effects of these marketplace values in higher education institutions, it develops both theoretical insights and practical organizing strategies pertinent to challenging new academic capitalist values and behaviors. Contributors, local and international, present cases from various institutions to illuminate how national trends concerning contingent faculty are articulated, implemented, and challenged at the local level. They present organizing strategies which are analyzed from an interdisciplinary perspective, providing a thorough and comprehensive view of the contingent labor movement. This book will provide useful lessons to a broad array of audiences in universities, labor movements, and national and local governments.

Understanding the Higher Education Market in Africa Emmanuel Mogaji, Felix Maringe, Robert Ebo Hinson, 2020-03-06 This book offers theoretical and practical insights into the marketing of higher education in Africa. It explores the key players, challenges, and policies affecting higher education across the continent, their marketing strategies, and the students' selection process. While acknowledging the vast size of the continent, this book aims to provide an understanding of the dynamics of higher education in Africa. This book recognises the private and government involvement in higher education provision and students and staff as stakeholders in the marketisation process. Strategic efforts are directed by universities to attract prospective students. This book further addresses issues such as the responses of higher education sectors to the notion of markets and marketing, consumerism, and competition in higher education in Africa, conceptions of the commodification of higher education in Africa, and the dominance of Western epistemologies and their influence in transforming higher education sectors. Students as consumers in increasingly marketised higher education sectors in Africa are also discussed Though primarily for marketing students and academic researchers the book s feature of blended theoretical and practical knowledge means that it will also be of interest to marketing practitioners and university managers
