R. Haines, 2017-12-04 Excerpt from The Communings With Himself of Marcus Aurelius Antoninus Emperor of Rome Together With His Speeches and Sayings a Revised Text and a Translation Into English The Greek text of this book is often difficult and in many places corrupt beyond cure but no trouble has been spared to make the translation as accurate and idiomatic as possible I have preferred to err if error it be on the side of over faithfulness because the physiognomy of the book owes so much to the method and style in which it is written Its homeliness abruptness and want of literary finish though it does not lack rhetoric are part of the character of the work and we alter this character by rewriting it into the terse epigrammatic staccato style so much in vogue at the present day Another reason for literalness is that it makes a comparison with the

Greek printed beside it easier for the unlearned When a work has been translated so often as this one it is difficult to be original without deviating further from the text but I have not borrowed a phrase scarcely a word from any of my predecessors If unconscious About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
