International Classification of Financial Reporting Christopher Nobes, 2014-08-07 Financial reporting practices differ widely between countries and this has far reaching implications for multinational businesses Over more than a century there have been attempts to classify countries into groups by similarities of practices With the recent spread of International Financial Reporting Standards it might appear that classification is largely of historical interest but this is not the case for several reasons explained in this book Christopher Nobes offers a critical analysis of the many previous accounting classifications having drawn lessons from other fields of science and social science Revised and updated to reflect the IFRS era the book discusses how old classifications are reflected in today's international differences in practice under IFRS It concludes with a discussion on the most useful classifications and how classifications can still be relevant in the era of international standards This book will be essential for academics postgraduates and undergraduates in international accounting accounting theory and to international accounting professionals The Archaeology of the North American Great Plains Douglas B. Bamforth, 2021-09-23 In this volume Douglas B Bamforth offers an archaeological overview of the Great Plains the vast open grassland bordered by forests and mountain ranges situated in the heart of North America Synthesizing a century of scholarship and new archaeological evidence he focuses on changes in resource use continental trade connections social formations and warfare over a period of 15 000 years Bamforth investigates how foragers harvested the grasslands more intensively over time ultimately turning to maize farming and examines the persistence of industrial mobile bison hunters in much of the region as farmers lived in communities ranging from hamlets to towns with thousands of occupants He also explores how social groups formed and changed migrations of peoples in and out of the Plains and the conflicts that occurred over time and space Significantly Bamforth's volume demonstrates how archaeology can be used as the basis for telling long term problem oriented human history Interpreting European Financial Statements Christopher Nobes, 1994 This text examines and compares the financial reporting regulations in the UK with those in other countries and provides a guide to the accounting requirements in other EC jurisdictions It groups countries with similar regulatory regimes so that they are more easily compared The Merck Report, 1894 Merck's Report Theodore Weicker, 1895 Merck's Market Report, 1895 Proceedings of the American Antiquarian Society American Antiquarian Society, 1981 The Organisation of Knowledge in Victorian Britain Martin Daunt, 2005-05-26 This collection of essays explores the questions of what counted as knowledge in Victorian Britain who defined knowledge and the knowledgeable by what means and by what criteria During the Victorian period the structure of knowledge took on a new and recognizably modern form and the disciplines we now take for granted took shape The ways in which knowledge was tested also took on a new form with the rise of written examinations New institutions of knowledge were created museums were important at the start of the period universities had become prominent by the end Victorians needed to make sense of the sheer scale of new information to popularize it and at the same time to exclude ignorance and error a role carried out by encyclopaedias and popular publications By studying the Victorian organization of knowledge in its institutional social and intellectual settings these essays contribute to our wider consideration of the complex and much debated concept of knowledge
