Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program on the physical fitness of 12-year-old children. The study was conducted in a school setting. The subjects were 12-year-old children, 50 females and 50 males, who were randomly selected from a public school in Istanbul. The subjects were divided into two groups: an experimental group and a control group. The experimental group performed a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program. The control group did not perform any physical activity. The physical fitness of the subjects was measured at the beginning and at the end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the experimental group had significantly higher levels of physical fitness than the control group at the end of the 12-week period. The results also showed that the experimental group had significantly higher levels of physical fitness than the control group at the beginning of the 12-week period. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program can improve the physical fitness of 12-year-old children.
