What Makes a World-Class School and How We Can Get There James H. Stronge, Xianxuan Xu, 2017-06-15 For years students in the United States have lagged behind students in many other countries on such measures of achievement as the PISA and TIMSS assessments In an increasingly globalized world such a gap is worrisome Armed with statistics examples and cautionary tales from Scandinavia to Japan James H Stronge and Xianxuan Xu have written a book that can help educators better prepare students and close that gap In What Makes a World Class School and How We Can Get There you will find Careful analysis of recent international assessment results what they mean and what can be done to improve them In depth profiles of high achieving education systems around the globe their histories their lessons learned and what they can teach educators and policymakers in the United States Strategies for aligning successful educational approaches from international systems to U S schools which strategies to use in which subjects and with which students Transformative ideas for cultivating a truly world class system of schooling both simple and complex ways to raise the bar for all students no matter what their background Educators in every country must ensure that their students are as prepared as possible to lead a future generation of citizens This thought provoking and copiously researched book provides educators with a blueprint for radical improvement based on the hard learned experiences of their peers around the world

The Framework for Success in Postsecondary Writing Nicholas N. Behm, Sherry Rankins-Robertson, 2017-03-03 Illustrates the widespread applications of the Framework for Success in Postsecondary Writing especially the eight habits of mind in helping students to be successful not only in postsecondary writing courses but also in four arenas of life academic professional civic and personal

The Growing Gap in Life Expectancy by Income National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Mathematical Sciences and Their Applications, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, Committee on the Long-Run Macroeconomic Effects of the Aging U.S. Population--Phase II, 2015-09-17 The U S population is aging Social Security projections suggest that between 2013 and 2050 the population aged 65 and over will almost double from 45 million to 86 million One key driver of population aging is ongoing increases in life expectancy Average U S life expectancy was 67 years for males and 73 years for females five decades ago the averages are now 76 and 81 respectively It has long been the case that better educated higher income people enjoy longer life expectancies than less educated lower income people The causes include early life conditions behavioral factors such as nutrition exercise and smoking behaviors stress and access to health care services all of which can vary across education and income Our major entitlement programs Medicare Medicaid Social Security and Supplemental Security Income have come to deliver disproportionately larger lifetime benefits to higher income people because on average they are increasingly collecting those benefits over more years than others This report studies the impact the growing gap in life expectancy has on the present value of lifetime benefits that people with higher or lower earnings will receive from major entitlement programs The analysis presented in The Growing Gap in Life Expectancy by Income goes beyond an examination of the existing literature by providing the first comprehensive estimates of how lifetime benefits are affected by the changing distribution of life expectancy The report also explores from a lifetime benefit perspective how the growing gap in longevity affects traditional policy analyses of reforms to the nation's leading entitlement programs This in depth analysis of the economic impacts of the longevity gap will inform debate and assist decision makers economists and researchers Women in Science Now Lisa M.
