Interdisciplinary Strategies for English and Social Studies Classrooms Joseph John Nowicki, Kerry F. Meehan, 1997

With today's growing emphasis on creating educational situations which are collaborative and inclusive particularly in junior and senior high schools there is a strong push to involve students in their learning to let them create their own understandings to encourage critical thinking and to increase student responsibility for their schooling. And while there is much said in the literature about this point as theory this is one of the first hands on books to link theory with practice. This terrific new resource is written in a very inviting style and format for teachers adjusting to the effects of inclusion and heterogeneity in classrooms and for teachers and administrators looking to break the barriers erected by subject area isolation in junior and senior high schools. In it you get nearly 50 interdisciplinary strategies to link social studies and English classes around common themes to provide the highest quality educational experiences for all students. The authors identify the common strengths gained by sharing areas of study while maintaining the unique character and integrity of English and social studies classes. To aid in lesson planning the authors identify subject and shared facts, skills and concepts between English and social studies lessons and how these relate to theme. They also identify obstacles to interdisciplinary activity because of perceived differences between English and social studies teachers and offer suggestions for overcoming those obstacles.

Reading in the Content Areas for Junior High and High School Judith Cochran, 1993. Reflecting the concern for the myriad problems resulting from the presence of poor readers in secondary schools today this volume shows secondary teachers why they must and how they can improve students' reading deficiencies. It also gives them lessons to use with students who are unable to cope in Peterson's Private Secondary Schools 2007 Thomson Peterson's, 2006-04. Lists and describes schools in the United States and Canada Circular Relative to Textbooks for Elementary and High Schools Saskatchewan. Dept. of Education, 1944 Motivation to Learn Deborah J. Stipek, 1998. Motivating students to achieve is a challenging and often frustrating task for today's teachers. This book provides readers with the underlying theories behind motivating their students by integrating theory, research and practical issues related to achievement motivation. This teacher centered book gives clear practical guidelines for diagnosing and improving student s motivation the focus is on classroom learning but attention is also given to how strategies used to motivate students in schools affect their motivation to participate in intellectual activities outside of school Teachers and other educators
