(Chapter – 1) (The Living World)
(Class – XI)

Question 1:

Why are living organisms classified?

Answer 1:

A large variety of plants, animals, and microbes are found on earth. All these living organisms differ in size, shape, colour, habitat, and many other characteristics. As there are millions of living organisms on earth, studying each of them is impossible. Therefore, scientists have devised mechanisms to classify all living organisms. These methods of classification are based on rules and principles that allow identification, nomenclature, and finally classification of an organism.

For example, based on certain principles, once an organism is identified as an insect, it will be given a scientific name and then grouped with other similar organisms. Thus, various groups or taxon include organisms based on their similarity and differences.

Therefore, the biological classification helps in revealing the relationship between various organisms. It also helps in making study of organisms easy and organized.

Question 2:

Why are the classification systems changing every now and then?

Answer 2:

Millions of plants, animals, and microorganisms are found on earth. Many of these have been identified by the scientists while many new species are still being discovered around the world. Therefore, to classify these newly discovered species, new systems of classification have to be devised every now and then. This creates the requirement to change the existing systems of classification.

Question 3:

What different criteria would you choose to classify people that you meet often?

Answer 3:

To classify a class of forty students, let us start the classification on the basis of sexes of the students. This classification will result in the formation of two major groups- boys and girls.

Each of these two groups can be further classified on the basis of the names of the students falling in these groups.

Since it is possible that more than one student can have a particular name, these names can be further divided based on the surnames.

Since there is still some chance that more than one student can have the same surname, the final level of classification will be based on the roll numbers of each student.

Question 4:

What do we learn from identification of individuals and populations?

Answer 4:

The knowledge of characteristics of an individual or its entire population helps in the identification of similarities and dissimilarities among the individuals of same kind or between different types of organisms. It helps the scientists to classify organisms in various categories.

Question 5:

Given below is the scientific name of Mango. Identify the correctly written name.

Mangifera Indica

Mangifera indica

Answer 5:

In binomial system of nomenclature, the generic name of a species always starts with a capital letter whereas the specific name starts with a small letter. Therefore, the correct scientific name of Mango is Mangifera indica.

Why Science and Faith Belong Together Malcolm A. Jeeves, 2021-02-25 As we try to understand ourselves and the world we live in all too often we look first to science and then if gaps remain in our understanding we try to fill the gaps with reference to God and our faith Such a god of the gaps approach has a long history and is sadly alive and well today This book was written to provide an alternative approach posing this basic question How can educated Christians maintain their intellectual honesty and at the same time be faithful both to Scripture and to science This book provides examples of some of the liveliest science vs faith issues today and suggests ways to think constructively about each of them Visions of Nature Riyan J. G. van den Born, W. T. de Groot, Rob H. J. Lenders, 2006 Visions of nature are the ideas that people hold of what nature is and how we should relate to it These visions are important for the design of democratically grounded landscape and nature policies These contributions were presented at an expert meeting at Radboud University June 2001 Natural and Unnatural Product Chemistry Bryan Hanley, 2025-01-26 This book examines and summarises the developments and changes in the approach of organic and natural product chemists over the past years presenting both the successes and inevitable missteps These illustrate the process from molecular isolation and structural identification synthesis and biosynthesis and future perspectives including the development of biological engineering The anticipated audience are chemistry literate scientists who are interested both in specific aspects of natural product chemistry and the illustrative process of trial error and success which defines the area Contemporary's GED Patricia Mulcrone, 1994 Writing skills social studies science literature and the arts plus mathematics are included in this study guide Psychology Charles G.
