an Unknown Woman James Naremore,2021-03-25 James Naremore s study of Max Ophuls classic 1948 melodrama Letter from an Unknown Woman not only pays tribute to Ophuls but also discusses the backgrounds and typical styles of the film s many contributors among them Viennese author Stephan Zweig whose 1922 novella was the source of the picture producer John Houseman an ally of Ophuls who nevertheless made questionable changes to what Ophuls had shot screenwriter Howard Koch music composer Dani le Amfitheatrof designers Alexander Golitzen and Travis Banton and leading actors Joan Fontaine and Louis Jourdan whose performances were central to the film s emotional effect Naremore also traces the film s reception history from its middling box office success and mixed early reviews exploring why it has been a work of exceptional interest to subsequent generations of both aesthetic critics and feminist theorists Lastly Naremore provides an in depth critical appreciation of the film offering nuanced appreciation of specific details of mise en scene camera movement design sound and performances integrating this close analyses into an overarching analysis of Letter s recognition plot a trope in which the recognition of a character s identity creates dramatic intensity or crisis Naremore argues that Letter s use of recognition is one of the most powerful in Hollywood cinema and contrasts it with what we find in Zweig s novella the first time the issues of gender and emotion that underpin the classical style of film scoring but that have until now remained unquestioned and untheorized thus providing a benchmark for thinking on more recent and alternative styles of scoring Many theorists have discussed this type of music in film as a signifier of emotion and the feminine a capacity in which it is frequently associated with female characters The full effect of such an association on either female or male characterization however has not been examined This book considers the effects of this association by progress through three stages cultural historical precedents the generic parameters of melodrama and the woman s film and the narrativization of music in film through diegetic performance and the presence of musicians as characters Case studies of specific films provide textual and musical analyses and the genres of melodrama and the woman s film have been chosen as representative not only of the epitome of the Hollywood scoring style but also of the narrative association of women emotion and music Laing leads to the conclusion that music functions as more than merely a signifier of emotion Rather it takes a crucial role in both indicating and determining how emotion is actually understood as part of the construction of gender and its representation in film
