Note to the reader

This book has been made by five of us. Our starting point was some of the ideas contained in the television series Ways of Seeing. We have tried to extend and elaborate these ideas. They have influenced not only what we say but also how we have set about trying to say it. The form of the book is as much to do with our purpose as the arguments contained within it.

The book consists of seven numbered essays. They can be read in any order. Four of the essays use words and images, three of them use only images. These purely pictorial essays (on ways of seeing women and on various contradictory aspects of the tradition of the oil painting) are intended to raise as many questions as the verbal essays. In the final essay no information at all is given

John Berger Ways Of Seeing Chapter 2:

The Media and Body Image Maggie Wykes,Barrie Gunter,2005-01-13 Drawing together literature from sociology gender studies and psychology this text offers a broad discussion of the topic in the context of socio cultural change gender politics and self identity The Power of the Image Annette Kuhn,2013-06-17 Analyses a wide range of film and still photographs to explore culturally dominant images and how they work Extensively illustrated this challenging collection of essays is essential reading for all students of media and women s studies Portraits of Automated Facial Recognition Lila Lee-Morrison,2019-11-26 Automated facial recognition algorithms are increasingly intervening in society This book offers a unique analysis of these algorithms from a critical visual culture studies perspective The first part of this study examines the example of an early facial recognition algorithm called eigenface and traces a history of the merging of statistics and vision The second part addresses contemporary artistic engagements with facial recognition technology in the work of Thomas Ruff Zach Blas and Trevor Paglen This book argues that we must take a closer look at the technology of automated facial recognition and claims that its forms of representation are embedded with visual politics Even more significantly this technology is redefining what it means to see and be seen in the contemporary world Technologies of Seeing Brian Winston,2019-07-25 This text examines the complex forces pushing and constraining technological developments in cinema It contests the view that technological advance is simply the result of scientific progress Rather the author argues that social forces control the media technology agenda at every stage John Akomfrah James Harvey,2023-08-10 The films of John Akomfrah represent one of the most significant bodies of artistic production in the post war era in Britain yet little attempt has been made to analyse the consistencies and divergences across them James Harvey s John Akomfrah is the first comprehensive analytic engagement with these films offering sustained close engagement with the artist s core thematic preoccupations and aesthetic tendencies His analysis negotiates the contextual and theoretical layers of Akomfrah s rich and complex films from the intermedial diaspora aesthetics of Handsworth Songs 1986 to the intersectional spatial ecopolitics of Purple 2017 Positioning Akomfrah in the burgeoning black British arts and cultural scene of the 1980s as a member of Black Audio Film Collective Harvey traces the evolution of a critical relationship with the postcolonial archive in his early films through analysis of documentaries made for television in the 1990s and up to more recent film installations in museums and galleries Introduction to Two-Dimensional Design John Bowers,2008-06-23 Introduction to Two Dimensional Design Second Edition provides a solid foundation in timeless design principles With the help of more than 200 revealing illustrations the book explores both the qualitative and quantitative aspects of 2D design interweaving historical accounts with penetrating analyses of visual principles and issues found in important contemporary examples This new edition demonstrates how competing approaches to 2D design including those based on intuition play chance and empirical research can be used successfully either alone or in combination Learning Cities Sue Nichols,Stephen Dobson,2018-03-29 This book is an interdisciplinary text exploring the learning and educative potentials of cities and their spaces including urban and suburban contexts at all stages of life Drawing on the insights of researchers from diverse fields such as education architecture history visual sociology applied linguistics and sensory studies this collection of papers develops and demonstrates the connection between experience in all its dimensions and informal learning in the city The chapters discuss various sensory domains of experience considering visual embodied and even sexual dimensions in relation to what and how learning operates and the contributors reflect on their learning and inquiring experiences in the city with special reference to topics such as narrativity race and ethnicity equity urban literacy re generation participation representation and oral histories

The Literature of the Senses Aquiles Alencar Brayner, 2009 This work highlights the importance given to corporeal perception in Noll's literature as the ground upon which one becomes conscious of oneself of the world and of others discussing also the way in which Noll's narrative places sensorial experiences at the very core of the aesthetic experience both as a foundational process upon which the writer becomes able to create his work as well as the medium through which the reader becomes invited to interpret from his own perceptual framework the story narrated The book pays also attention to the Brazilian socio political and cultural contexts of the 1970s 1980s and 1990s showing how Noll's literary production distances itself from and even criticises the popular and commercially successful documentary genre known as romance reportagem which used literature as a form of political propaganda
