The Politics of Expertise in International Organizations Annabelle Littoz-Monnet,2017-02-24 This edited volume advances existing research on the production and use of expert knowledge by international bureaucracies Given the complexity technicality and apparent apolitical character of the issues dealt with in global governance arenas evidence based policy making has imposed itself as the best way to evaluate the risks and consequences of political action in global arenas In the absence of alternative democratic modes of legitimation international organizations have adopted this approach to policy making By treating international bureaucracies as strategic actors this volume address novel questions why and how do international bureaucrats deploy knowledge in policy making Where does the knowledge they use come from and how can we retrace pathways between the origins of certain ideas and their adoption by international administrations What kind of evidence do international bureaucrats resort to and with what implications Which types of knowledge are seen as authoritative and why This volume makes a crucial contribution to our understanding of the way global policy agendas are shaped and propagated It will be of great interest to scholars policy makers and practitioners in the fields of public policy international relations global governance and international organizations

Social Work for Child Poverty-Alleviation Fan Wu,2025-01-30 This book is to reflect on the achievements and challenges of current poverty alleviation practices for children in China in order to understand and clarify the function intervention strategies and development direction of social work in child poverty alleviation It systematically presents the theoretical framework and practical path of social work in child poverty alleviation The book has three main focuses firstly it reviews the theoretical analysis framework of social work in child poverty alleviation such as social development perspective social integration perspective and ecological systems theory at a macro level as well as life course theory and resilience theory at a micro level secondly it presents the general practice path of social work in child poverty alleviation from the perspective of practice framework intervention path work procedures and specific methods exploring the key points difficulties methods and techniques of social work intervention in child poverty alleviation practices through local cases in China thirdly based on the international social work experience in child poverty alleviation and combined with local practices in China it clarifies the future direction and advantages of social work in child poverty alleviation in China

Oil, Gas, and Crime Rick Ruddell,2017-07-22 This book addresses the causes of rising crime rates resulting from the rapid population growth and industrialization associated with natural resource extraction in rural communities Ruddell describes the social problems emerging in these boomtowns including increases in antisocial behavior as well as property related and violent crime industrial mishaps and traffic collisions Many of the victims of these crimes are already members of vulnerable or marginalized groups including rural women Indigenous populations and young people The quality of life in boomtowns also decreases due to environmental impacts including air water and noise pollution Law enforcement agencies courts and correction facilities in boomtowns are often overwhelmed by the growing demand as these places are seldom able to manage the population growth The key questions addressed here are who should pay the costs of managing these booms and how can we prepare communities to mitigate the worst effects of this growth and development and ultimately increase the quality of life for boomtown residents An in depth and timely study this original work will be of great interest to scholars of violent crime criminal justice and corporate harm Assessing the Military Skills Development Scheme as a Strategic Human Resource Management Imperative Bongani Abner Xaba,2013 The study aims to probe into the SANDF s strategic purpose for implementing the MSDS and whether the learners acquire the skills they regard declared as essential The study will also investigate whether the MSDS fulfils the learners career aspirations and further asses their view regarding the programme Manual military training system 2016 ,2016 Military Skills ,1985 Military Skills for America's Future .,2012 Military Skills David A. Training: DOD Needs a Strategic Plan and Better Inventory and Requirements Data to Guide Development of Language Skills and Regional Proficiency ,2009 Violent extremist movements and ongoing military operations have prompted the Department of Defense DoD to place greater emphasis on improving language and regional proficiency which includes cultural awareness GAO was asked to assess the extent to which DoD has done the following 1 developed a strategic plan to guide its language and regional proficiency transformation efforts and 2 obtained the information it needs to identify potential language and regional proficiency gaps and assess risk To conduct this assessment GAO analyzed DoD s Defense Language Transformation Roadmap reviewed the military services strategies for transforming language and regional proficiency capabilities and assessed the range of efforts intended to help identify potential gaps GAO recommends that DoD do the following 1 develop a comprehensive strategic plan for its language and regional proficiency transformation 2 establish a mechanism to assess the regional proficiency skills of its military and civilian personnel and 3 develop a methodology to identify its language and regional proficiency requirements DoD concurred with GAO s recommendations and stated it is taking related actions Military Skills ,1985 Retention of Military Skills Acquired in Basic Combat Training Robert D. McDonald,1967 Performance data were collected in the three general Basic Combat Training proficiency areas rifle marksmanship physical combat fitness end of cycle tests from independent groups of soldiers 60 per group during BCT during Advanced Individual Training AIT and Combat Support Training CST and for permanent party personnel in the Army six to 12 months These data were collected at three U S Army Training Centers under comparable conditions Results on the three areas tested indicated a general performance decrement over the one year period sampled While these performance decrements were statistically significant the percentage decrements from the BCT level were relatively small and their practical significance is open to question Author Retention and Fading of Military Skills: ,2000 This work surveys the scientific technical literature for models of skill fading and tools for determining when refresher training is required with particular attention to models for predicting skill retention relevant to the military domain Eight factors are examined which have been demonstrated to affect skill retention the retention interval the opportunity to practice the degree method of learning the similarity of training performance environments the type of task the method of testing and individual differences It then examines several classes of models for predicting skill retention including subjective and qualitative approaches as well as the quantitative Users Decision Aid UDA model of the United States Army Research Institute Finally the literature review identifies a set of lessons learned and discusses five specific recommendations regarding validation of the UDA model further research and development of self assessment tools

Military Skills in a Changing Technology ,1960 This paper attempts to identify some of the significant implications of recent technological changes for military skills Two of the major technological changes that will be considered are a the great increase in firepower resulting from the development of atomic weapons and b the great increase in complexity of military equipment resulting from extensive use of electronic devices such as radars and computers It is important for the military psychologist to identify the changes in military skills which will be brought about by technological advances First selection and training procedures must be kept up to date and research on selection and training often needs to anticipate the actual technological change Second it often is possible to influence the direction and rate of technological change for the purpose of achieving more effective overall man machine systems and of minimizing undesirable consequences of technological change on men in service
