Evoked Potential Manual E. Colon, S.L. Visser, J.P.C de Weerd, A. Zonneveldt, 2013-11-11 J P C de Weerd Evoked potentials are the electrical voltage fluctuations which can be recorded from parts of the nervous system in response to stimulation of sensory modalities One may distinguish between evoked potentials from the peripheral and the central nervous system For the latter type a further subdivision can be made into spinal brainstem and cortical evoked potentials according to the assumed structures from which the responses derive Another possible subdivision can be made with respect to the specific sensory modality which is stimulated Accordingly one has auditory somatosensory visual gustatory and olfactory evoked potentials At the present time the former three types of evoked potentials are the ones that are commonly measured in diagnostic procedures The corresponding sensory systems are relatively easy to stimulate for example by means of an acoustic click a brief electrical shock or a reversing light pattern In contrast stimulation of the olfactory and gustatory systems has proven to be technically and physiologically difficult and research in these areas is still in an early stage
