International Journal of Information and Communication Technology Education ,2007 Information Technology Education in the New Millennium Dadashzadeh, Mohammad,Saber, Al,Saber, Sherry,2001-07-01 The information technologies explosion in our global society is creating tremendous challenges and opportunities for educators as they help shape the next generation of information pioneers How will information technology IT education evolve in the new millennium The It sector is expected to continue to face a severe shortage of workers As more and more organizations accept IT training as a strategic investment and not a cost center the adoption of e learning will accelerate Information Technology Education in the New Millennium addresses crucial issues dealing with the most recent innovations and issues found within the field International Journal of Information and Communication Technology Education Lawrence Tomei,2010 Ask any teacher at any level of education technology engages learners and animates their imagination Technology stimulates minds in ways that make a profound and lasting difference Indeed technology for many is the most important new teaching strategy and learning style introduced in the past 50 years Yet the discipline is woefully lax in quantifiable and qualitative validation of successful learning outcomes Learners with basic skills in reading writing and arithmetic master those skills better and faster with technology yet the research is not there to defend how much better or how much faster these skills are acquired Technology offers educators a way to adapt instruction to the needs of more diverse learners still such successes are not generalized across populations or content areas Learners use technology to acquire and organize information evidence to obtain a higher level of comprehension but we are not sure why The purpose of the International Journal of Information and Communication Technology Education IJICTE is to grow this body of research propose new applications of technology for teaching and learning and document those practices that contribute irrefutable verification of information technology education as a discipline Evaluation of Science and Technology Education at the Dawn of a New Millennium James W. Altschuld,David D. Kumar,2006-04-11 James Altschuld David Kumar and their chapter authors have produced an upbeat provocative visionary and useful volume on educational evaluation Of special utility is its grounding in issues and practices relating to evaluations of science and technology education The book should appeal and be useful to a wide range of persons involved in evaluations of educational policy programs and less so science teachers These persons include science and technology education experts educational policymakers officials of the National Science Foundation school administrators classroom teachers evaluation instructors evaluation methodologists practicing evaluators and test developers among others Contents reflecting international studies of curriculum evaluation of distance education and evaluation of technology utilization in Australian schools as well as evaluations in America should make the book appealing to an international audience Moreover it provides a global perspective for assessing and strengthening educational evaluation in the US Daniel L.
