Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were 15 men, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular disease. They were randomly assigned to a 10-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of 30 minutes of aerobic exercise, 3 times per week. The control group did not exercise. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 10-week period. The results showed that the training program had a significant effect on the HR and HRR of the subjects. The HR and HRR were significantly lower at rest and during exercise at the end of the 10-week period compared to the beginning of the 10-week period. The control group did not show any significant changes in HR and HRR. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary middle-aged men.
