Autopsy Ryan Blumenthal, 2020-08-12 As a medical detective of the modern world forensic pathologist Ryan Blumenthal's chief goal is to bring perpetrators to justice. He has performed thousands of autopsies which have helped bring numerous criminals to book. In Autopsy he covers the hard lessons learnt as a rookie pathologist as well as some of the most unusual cases he's encountered. During his career for example he has dealt with high profile deaths, mass disasters, death by lightning and people killed by African wildlife. Blumenthal takes the reader behind the scenes at the mortuary describing a typical autopsy and the instruments of the trade. He also shares a few trade secrets like how to establish when a suicide is more likely to be a homicide. Even though they cannot speak the dead have a lot to say and Blumenthal is there to listen.

Climate change and agriculture in the Sudan: Impact pathways beyond changes in mean rainfall and temperature Siddig, Khalid, Stepanyan, Davit, Wiebelt, Manfred, Zhu, Tingju, Grethe, Harald, 2018-09-26 Several environmental changes have occurred in the Sudan in the past several are ongoing and others are projected to happen in the future. The Sudan has witnessed increases in temperature, floods, rainfall variability and concurrent droughts. In a country where agriculture which is mainly rainfed is a major contributor to gross domestic product, foreign exchange earnings and livelihoods, these changes are especially important, requiring measurement and analysis of their impact. This study not only analyzes the economy-wide impacts of climate change but also consults national policy plans, strategies and environmental assessments to identify interventions which may mitigate the effects. We feed climate forcing, water demand and macro socioeconomic trends into a modelling suite that includes models for global hydrology, river basin management, water stress and crop growth, all connected to the International Model for Policy Analysis of Agricultural Commodities and Trade (IMPACT). The outcomes of this part of the modeling suite are annual crop yields and global food prices under various climate change scenarios until 2050. The effects of such changes on production, consumption, macroeconomic indicators and income distribution are assessed using a single country dynamic Computable General Equilibrium (CGE) model for the Sudan. Additionally, we introduce yield variability into the CGE model based on stochastic projections of crop yields until 2050. The results of the model simulations reveal that while the projected mean climate changes bring some good news for the Sudan, extreme negative variability costs the Sudan cumulatively between 2018 and 2050 US 109.5 billion in total absorption and US 105.5 billion in GDP relative to a historical mean climate scenario without climate change.

Critical Mineral Resources of the United States K. J. Schulz, John H. DeYoung, Robert R. Seal, Dwight C. Bradley, 2017 As the importance and dependence of specific mineral commodities increase, so does concern about their supply. The United States is currently 100 percent reliant on foreign sources for 20 mineral commodities and imports the majority of its supply of more than 50 mineral commodities. Mineral commodities that have important uses and face potential supply disruption are critical to American economic and national security. However, a mineral commodity's importance and the nature of its supply chain can change with time, a mineral commodity that may not have been considered critical 25 years ago may be critical today and one considered critical today may not be so in the future The U S Geological Survey has produced this volume to describe a select group of mineral commodities currently critical to our economy and security For each mineral commodity covered the authors provide a comprehensive look at 1 the commodity s use 2 the geology and global distribution of the mineral deposit types that account for the present and possible future supply of the commodity 3 the current status of production reserves and resources in the United States and globally and 4 environmental considerations related to the commodity s production from different types of mineral deposits The volume describes U S critical mineral resources in a global context for no country can be self sufficient for all its mineral commodity needs and the United States will always rely on global mineral commodity supply chains This volume provides the scientific understanding of critical mineral resources required for informed decisionmaking by those responsible for ensuring that the United States has a secure and sustainable supply of mineral commodities Socio-Ecological Systems and

Decoloniality Deepa Pullanikkatil,Kerry Hughes,2023-01-01 This contributed volume provides case studies from around the world that feature a convergence of indigenous and western knowledge in an attempt to understand complex socio ecological systems The book provides an understanding of socio ecological systems in an ethical space using a Decoloniality approach i e untangling the production of knowledge from a primarily Eurocentric episteme The work presented here integrates and merges indigenous knowledge with western science thereby building on the strengths of each in service of understanding these systems The editors of this volume approach indigenous communities and scientists as equal knowledge holders and in doing so contributes towards improved understanding of socio ecological systems and interactions in cross cultural contexts This volume will be of interest to scientists instructors students and policy makers across disciplines such as environmental sciences social sciences interdisciplinary studies cultural studies ethnobotany anthropology and plant genetic resources

Local, Traditional and Indigenous Food Systems in the 21st Century to Combat Obesity, Undernutrition and Climate Change, 2nd edition Rebecca Kanter,Sofia Boza,Gina Kennedy,2023-07-31 Traditional and indigenous food systems have existed for centuries and were in balance with local food supplies globally However between the mid 20th and early 21st century the green revolution dramatically altered food production which in turn affected the inclusivity of traditional production systems within food systems and subsequently traditional dietary intakes This change was accompanied by lifestyle changes and spurred a global nutrition transition Today the world faces a global syndemic of obesity undernutrition and climate change A new call to action to create food systems that nourish people and sustain the planet is needed Traditional and indigenous food systems have long been recognized as systems that can both support good human nutrition as well as maintain a balance with nature There is an underutilized knowledge base around traditional and indigenous food systems This includes the knowledge of nutritious species traditional culinary preparations and cultural practices Greater agricultural production of underutilized species can result in more sustainable agricultural and food systems which can also help improve livelihoods and food security Traditional and indigenous cultural practices with respect to both land and water management as well as culinary practices contribute to both sustainable food production and consumption These practices require a greater evidence base in order to be incorporated into public health nutrition initiatives related to improving dietary quality such as food based dietary guidelines for example An increased focus on the importance of local traditional and indigenous food systems and nutrition could therefore help countries to improve human nutrition and ideally help mitigate the global syndemic of obesity undernutrition and climate change This Research Topic will focus on documenting diverse local food systems and promoting elements within them that can help improve nutrition and health both human and planetary in various ways including the livelihood development of knowledge holders Outlook on Agriculture ,2015 Early Human Colonization of Remote Indian Ocean Islands and its Ecological Impacts Atholl John Anderson,Geoffrey Clark,Greger Larson,Krish Seetah,Simon Haberle,2022-06-14
