Instructions are included in the manual for operating various components. which are optional on some vehicles. In addition, the owner should refer to individual manufacturer's operating instructions contained in the owner's packet.

WARNING: Review the compatibility of your tow vehicle with the trailer you will be towing. You should not exceed the gross vehicle weight rating of the trailer (GVWR). Know your loaded bitch weight and select a hitch that is adequate for that weight, You, as the owner, are responsible for the safey and compatibility of your tow vehicle and trailer selections. Consult your hitch and tow vehicle manufacturers with any questions before you tow your trailer. You are responsible for the maintenance of your tow vehicle and trailer. Do not exceed the tow or cargo capacity of your tow vehicle, and remember that the GCVWR relates to towing capacity and does not necessarily indicate braking capacity. Do not overload your trailer with additions, cargo, or tank fluids to exceed the GYWR of the trailer. Do not load your trailer so that it is unbalanced from front to year or from side to side. You must clearly understand how your particular tow vehicle capacities are calculated. Make sure your tow vehicle is mechanically sound for your intended usage and pay particular attention to suspension components, tires and tire pressure. We recommend that you use sway control devices and weight distributing hitches with all Javon towable products. Many states have lower speed limit requirements for tow vehicle/trailer combinations. Obey all truffic laws and use your scatbelts at all times. We recommend that you do not exceed 55 MPH when towing a tradier. There are private RV driving schools and some RV clubs offer driving orminars as part of their club activities. Recreation vehicle publications and the Internet can be a source of information regarding RV driver education as well as many other topics to help you learn to safely use your recreation vehicle.
