Abstract

1. The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need. This involves conducting market research to understand the preferences and behaviors of potential customers. Once a need is identified, the next step is to develop a concept that addresses this need. This concept should be unique, feasible, and profitable. The third step is to create a prototype of the product. This allows the company to test the product's functionality and make necessary adjustments. Finally, the product is launched into the market, and the company monitors its performance and customer feedback to make further improvements.
