- Some people (about 1 in 4000) may have seizures or blackouts triggered by light flashes or patterns, and this may occur while they are watching TV or playing video games, even if they have never had a seizure before.
 - Anyone who has had a seizure, loss of awareness, or other symptom linked to an epileptic condition, should consult a doctor before playing a video game.
 - Parents should watch their children play video games. Stop playing and consult a doctor if you or your child has any of the following symptoms:
- | Complaints | Eyes or muscle twitching | Altered vision |
|-------------------|--------------------------|----------------|
| Loss of awareness | Involuntary movements | Disorientation |
- To reduce the likelihood of a seizure when playing video games:
 1. Sit or stand as far from the screen as possible.
 2. Play video games on the smallest available television screen.
 3. Do not play if you are tired or need sleep.
 4. Play in a well-lit room.
 5. Take a 10 to 15 minute break every hour.

Playing video games can make your muscles, joints, skin or eyes hurt. Follow these instructions to avoid problems such as hand cramps, carpal tunnel syndrome, skin irritation or sore eyes:

- Avoid excessive play. Parents should monitor their children for appropriate play.
- Take a 10 to 15 minute break every hour, even if you don't think you need it.
- If your hands, wrists, arms or eyes become tired or sore while playing or if you feel symptoms such as tingling, numbness, burning or stiffness, stop and rest for several hours before playing again.
- If you are going to have any of the above symptoms, stop playing and rest for several hours.
