1 Connecting the Wireless-G Access Point

- Locate an optimal location for the Access Point. The best place for the Access Point is usually at the center of your wireless network, with line of sight to all of your mobile stations.
- For the duration of the process, try to place it in a position that can best connect your wireless network. Normally, the higher you place the antenna, the better the performance will be. The antenna's position influences the receiving sensitivity. Both antennas should be perpendicular to the ground and pointed in each other.
- Connect the included Category 5 Ethernet network cable to the Access Point. Then connect the other end of the network cable to a switch or hub. The Access Point will then be connected to your LAN network.

- Connect the AC power adapter to the Access Point's Power port. Only use the power adapter supplied with the Access Point. Use of a different adapter may result in product damage.

Powered by Plug & Play

Note: In order for all other wireless devices to communicate with the Access Point, these devices need to operate in infrastructure mode. If any wireless devices are configured to ad-hoc mode, they WILL NOT be recognized by the Access Point.

2 Setting Up the Wireless-G Access Point

Now that you've connected the Access Point to your wired network, you are ready to begin setting it up. The Setup Wizard will take you through all the steps necessary to get the Access Point connecting your wireless network to your wired network and communicating with ease efficiently.

Note: While the Access Point has been designed to work correctly right out of the box, setting it up on a wireless-capable computer will require you to use the Linksys default settings. These settings can then be changed through the Web-based interface. For more details, refer to the User Manual on the Setup Wizard CD-ROM.

- Insert the Setup Wizard CD into your PC's CD-ROM drive. (Normally, your PC should be on your wired network.)

- The Wireless Setup Wizard appears on your screen. It then asks the user for access to the Internet. Select "No" (indicating that the wireless user only by clicking the Next button, selecting "No" will cause the Wizard to stop at your PC's CD-ROM drive. Then click the Setup button.
