ABSTRACT

The Covid-19 pandemic has caused the learning system from elementary to tertiary level to change using distance learning. This causes all stakeholders need to master digital devices so they can follow the learning well. The digital abilities of students as learning subjects are on the spotlight because they are considered capable of operating qualified digital devices. This study aims to measure the digital literacy ability of students and then compare the digital literacy ability of students in terms of location. This research used a quantitative approach with a survey method. The study population was elementary school teacher education students in Bandung and Cilacap. Then, the sample from the study was chosen purposively based on their respective affiliations. Data collection techniques used questionnaire through the Google form while the data analysis used descriptive statistics. Furthermore, the results of the study indicate that the digital literacy abilities of students are in the medium category. Students already have decent mastery in digital media but they do not pay attention to aspects related to the writing code of ethics such as including valid references and very rarely access the journal as a source of literature. In terms of hardware usage aspects, students have shown better development because they can use applications that support distance learning activities. Thus, the researcher concludes that in terms of location all prospective teachers have medium category on digital literacy ability.

Keywords: Digital literacy, digital media, survey

1. INTRODUCTION

As the times and science advance, humans will continue to make various innovations. Technology is one of the results of human innovation. The developments that occur cannot be avoided, along with the development of needs that give birth to technological developments (Jamun, 2018). Etymologically, technology is knowledge about making something (Yasmi, 2018). In this era of globalization, technology has become an important aspect to support daily life, be it economic, political, cultural, artistic, and even educational aspects (Jamun, 2018).

In the 21st century, all information and communication can be done easily, quickly, instantaneously, and can be reached by anyone and anywhere (Rakhmawati, 2017). The younger generation, especially students, are expected to master various 21st century skills and use them to improve the quality of civilization. 21st century skills are skills that must be mastered by everyone in order to succeed in facing the challenges, life problems, and careers of the 21st century (Redhana, 2019). 21st century skills that are integrated in knowledge, skills, and attitudes, as well as mastery of technology can be developed through critical thinking and problem solving, communication, creativity and innovation, and collaboration.

To develop 21st-century skills, the government of the Republic of Indonesia through the Ministry of Education and Culture (MoEC) has issued an effort to activate literacy, namely the National Literacy Movement (GLN). The National Literacy Movement is part of the implementation of Regulation of the Minister of Education and Culture Number 23 of 2015 concerning the Development of Character (MoEC, 2017). There are six literacy developed, namely literacy, numeracy literacy, scientific literacy, digital literacy, financial literacy, cultural literacy, and citizenship.

Digital literacy is the ability to access, organize, understand, use, and disseminate information in various

Literacy Research Paper:

Research 2.0 and the Future of Information Literacy Tibor Koltay, Sonja Spiranec, Laszlo Z Karvalics, 2016-01-22

Research 2.0 and the Future of Information Literacy examines possible congruencies between information literacy and Research 2.0 because the work of today's researcher mobilizes a number of literacies. From among the various types of relevant literacies at least three types of literacies can be mentioned in this relation: information literacy, scientific literacy, and academic literacy. This book addresses these literacies in the light of the changing research landscape. Broad contexts of the researcher's abilities as adaptive and innovative thinking, problem solving skills, self management, and design mindset are also examined. Computational thinking and the computational paradigm in a number of fields of research are taken into consideration as well. Researchers differ to non-researchers when populating social media which means that these two different groups require different literacies. The relationship between information literacy and information is approached in a new way. Among the multitude of issues we introduce a new interface between information literacy and Research 2.0. It encompasses the issues of research data management and data literacy which represent also a challenge both for the academic library and for the communities of researchers. Similarly the questions of new metrics of scientific output are addressed in the book. Summarizes the most important and up to date approaches towards Research 2.0 including researchers skills and abilities, the data intensive paradigm of scientific research, open science, not forgetting about factors that inhibit a wider uptake of Research 2.0. Discusses the nature of information literacy in the light of its definitions, declarations, and related frameworks, and by outlining the new literacies context, reading and writing, the cultural context, and the turns of library and information science. Numerous literacies other than information literacy, its relationship to information overload, and personal information management are also subject of the book. Theoretical and practical perspectives are given to enable the understanding of the transformations of information literacy and its relationship to Research 2.0.

New Methods of Literacy Research Peggy Albers, Teri Holbrook, Amy Flint, 2013-08-22

Literacy researchers at all stages of their careers are designing and developing innovative new methods for analyzing data in a range of spaces in and out of school. Directly connected with evolving themes in literacy research, theory, instruction, and practices especially in the areas of digital technologies, gaming, and web-based research, discourse analysis, and arts-based research, this much needed text is the first to capture these new directions in one volume. Written by internationally recognized authorities whose work is situated in these methods, each chapter describes the origin of the method and its distinct characteristics, offers a demonstration of how to analyze data using the method, presents an exemplary study in which this method is used, and discusses the potential of the method to advance and extend literacy research. For literacy researchers asking how to match their work with current trends, and for educators asking how to measure and document what is viewed as literacy within classrooms, this is THE text to help them learn about and use the rich range of new and emerging literacy research.

methods Literacy Research Methodologies Marla H. Mallette, Nell K. Duke, 2020-11-23 The definitive reference on literacy research methods this book serves as a key resource for researchers and as a text in graduate level courses Distinguished scholars clearly describe established and emerging methodologies discuss the types of questions and claims for which each is best suited identify standards of quality and present exemplary studies that illustrate the approaches at their best The book demonstrates how each mode of inquiry can yield unique insights into literacy learning and teaching and how the methods can work together to move the field forward Enquiring Into Literacy Elaine Millard, 2000 Reading, Research, and Writing Mary Snyder Broussard, 2017 Information literacy involves a combination of reading writing and critical thinking Librarians in an academic library while not directly responsible for teaching those skills are involved in making such literacy part of the students learning process Broussard approaches the misconceptions about the relationship between libraries as a source of information literacy and offers suggestions on providing students support when working on research papers The Future of Literacy Studies M. Baynham, M. Prinsloo, 2015-12-29 This book brings together authors actively involved in shaping the field of literacy studies presenting a robust approach to the theoretical and empirical work which is currently pushing the boundaries of literacy research and also pointing to future directions for literacy research
