

A vibrant collage of journalism-related icons on a dark blue background. The word "JOURNALISM" is prominently displayed in a white, serif font, enclosed within a blue rectangular frame with a white border. Surrounding the central text are various icons: a television set with "TV" on its screen, a newspaper with "NEWS" on its front page, a microphone, a smartphone held in a hand, a radio, a film clapperboard, a speech bubble, a cloud with an upward arrow, a computer monitor, a hand holding a pen, a globe, a magnifying glass, and several other media-related symbols. The overall composition is dynamic and represents the multifaceted nature of journalism in the modern era.

Journalism in Colonial Australia Willa McDonald, 2023-09-02 This book traces the beginnings of literary narrative journalism in Australia. It contributes to evolving international definitions of the form while providing a glimpse into Australia's early press history and development as a nation. The book comprises two parts. The first examines the forerunners of literary journalism before and during the establishment of a free press, including the letters, diaries, and journals of the early colonists as well as sketches published in the first magazines and newspapers. The book asks if these were reporting when there was no thriving press until well into the 19th century; many were written by women and convicts whose voices otherwise went unheard. The second part examines the first expressions of literary journalism in forms more recognisable today, covering topics as varied as homelessness in Melbourne, the Queensland trade in Pacific Islander labour, and Australia's involvement in overseas wars, particularly the Boer War. The resulting cultural history reveals important milestones in the development of Australia's press and literature while demonstrating the concerns unveiled in colonial literary journalism still resonate in Australia in the 21st century.

Literary Journalism and the Aesthetics of Experience John C. Hartsock, 2016
Introduction: Telling news naturally. Telling the leaves from the forest. The death of the dream of paradise. The elasticity of literary reportage. Negotiating cultural and personal revelation. Conclusion.

Literary Sports Journalism: Beyond the Boundaries Tom Bradshaw, 2025-03-12 This book delivers a powerful argument for the centrality of sport in culture, exploring how fine sports writing bestows meaning upon the human world. Literary Sports Journalism: Beyond the Boundaries explores the multiple and fertile interconnections between sports writing and mainstream creative writing, including the works of Ernest Hemingway, Hunter S. Thompson, Joyce Carol Oates, and Martin Amis. In so doing, it delivers a reappraisal of a number of key writers. As such, the book aims to unite journalism studies with both literary analysis and philosophy. At root, it is an inquiry into aesthetics: an exploration of the beauty of words, the beauty and ugliness of sport, and the distinctive beauty that arises when words are used to capture sport. Tom Bradshaw argues that it is the writing around sport, rather than about sport, that is often the most profound, perceptive, and beautiful, and which tells us much about what it is to be human.

Literary Journalism in the Twentieth Century Norman Sims, 2008-11-04 This wide-ranging collection of critical essays on literary journalism addresses the shifting border between fiction and non-fiction literature and journalism. Literary Journalism in the Twentieth Century addresses general and historical issues, explores questions of authorial intent, and the status of the territory between literature and journalism, and offers a case study of Mary McCarthy's 1953 piece Artists in Uniform, a classic of literary journalism. Sims offers a thought-provoking study of the nature of perception and the truth, as well as issues facing journalism today.

The Rise of Literary Journalism in the Eighteenth Century Iona Italia, 2005
This book provides an account of the early periodical as a literary genre. Tracing the development of journalism from the 1690s to the 1760s, it covers a range of publications by well-known writers and obscure hacks.

Settling the Borderland Jan Whitt, 2008-09-05 Settling the Borderland deals with the intimate connection between journalism and literature; both fields in which work by women has been underrepresented This book has a twin focus the work of journalists who became some of the greatest novelists poets and short story writers of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries in America several of whom are men and contemporary journalists who best exemplify the effective use of literary techniques in news coverage Although five women are emphasized here Katherine Anne Porter Eudora Welty Joan Didion Sara Davidson and Susan Orlean three men whose work was profoundly influenced by journalism also are included Edgar Allan Poe Walt Whitman and John Steinbeck are well known as writers of poetry short stories and novels but they too are among the other voices rarely included in studies of literary journalism In Settling the Borderland Jan Whitt presents a thorough analysis of the increasingly indistinct lines between truth and fiction and between fact and creative narrative in contemporary media

Becoming the News Ruth Palmer, 2017-12-05 What does it feel like to be featured quoted or just named in a news story A refugee family the survivor of a shooting a primary voter in Iowa the views and experiences of ordinary people are an important component of journalism While much has been written about how journalists work and gather stories what do we discover about the practice of journalism and attitudes about the media by focusing on the experiences of the subjects themselves In Becoming the News Ruth Palmer argues that understanding the motivations and experiences of those who have been featured in news stories voluntarily or not sheds new light on the practice of journalism and the importance many continue to place on the role of the mainstream media Based on dozens of interviews with news subjects Becoming the News studies how ordinary people make sense of their experience as media subjects Palmer charts the arc of the experience of making the news from the events that brought an ordinary person to journalists attention through the decision to cooperate with reporters interactions with journalists and reactions to the news coverage and its aftermath She explores what motivates someone to talk to the press whether they consider the potential risks the power dynamics between a journalist and their subject their expectations about the motivations of journalists and the influence of social media on their decisions and reception Pointing to the ways traditional news organizations both continue to hold on to and are losing their authority Becoming the News has important implications for how we think about the production and consumption of news at a time when Americans distrust the news media more than ever
