National Association of Broadcasters Engineering Handbook Garrison Cavell, 2017-07-28 The NAB Engineering Handbook is the definitive resource for broadcast engineers. It provides in-depth information about each aspect of the broadcast chain from audio and video contribution through an entire broadcast facility all the way to the antenna. New topics include Ultra High Definition Television, Internet Radio, Interfacing and Streaming, ATSC 3.0, Digital Audio Compression Techniques, Digital Television Audio Loudness Management, and Video Format and Standards Conversion. Important updates have been made to incumbent topics such as AM Shortwave FM and Television Transmitting Systems, Studio Lighting, Cameras, and Principles of Acoustics. The big picture comprehensive nature of the NAB Engineering Handbook will appeal to all broadcast engineers, everyone from broadcast chief engineers who need expanded knowledge of all the specialized areas they encounter in the field to technologists in specialized fields like IT and RF who are interested in learning about unfamiliar topics. Chapters are written to be accessible and easy to understand by all levels of engineers and technicians. A wide range of related topics that engineers and technical managers need to understand are covered, including broadcast documentation, FCC practices, technical standards, security, safety, disaster planning, facility planning, project management, and engineering management.

ICANN '93 Stan Gielen, Bert Kappen, 2012-12-06 This book contains the proceedings of the International Conference on Artificial Neural Networks which was held between September 13 and 16 in Amsterdam. It is the third in a series which started two years ago in Helsinki and which last year took place in Brighton. Thanks to the European Neural Network Society, ICANN has emerged as the leading conference on neural networks in Europe. Neural networks is a field of research which has enjoyed a rapid expansion and great popularity in both the academic and industrial research communities. The field is motivated by the commonly held belief that applications in the fields of artificial intelligence and robotics will benefit from a good understanding of the neural information processing properties that underlie human intelligence. Essential aspects of neural information processing are highly parallel execution of computation, integration of memory and process, and robustness against fluctuations. It is believed that intelligent skills such as perception, motion, and cognition can be easier realized in neurocomputers than in a conventional computing paradigm. This requires active research in neurobiology to extract computational principles from experimental neurobiological findings in physics and mathematics to study the relation between architecture and function in neural networks and in cognitive science to study higher brain functions such as language and reasoning. Neural networks technology has already led to practical methods that solve real problems in a wide area of industrial applications. The clusters on robotics and applications contain sessions on various sub-topics in these fields.
