Mathematical Literacy Paper June 24:

STEM Education 2.0 Alpaslan Sahin, Margaret J. Mohr-Schroeder, 2019-08-12 STEM Education 2.0 discusses the most recent research on important selected K 12 STEM topics by synthesizing previous research and offering new research questions. The contributions range from analysis of key STEM issues that have been studied for more than two decades to topics that have more recently become popular such as maker space and robotics. In each chapter nationally and internationally known STEM experts review key literature in the field, share findings of their own research with its implications for K 12 STEM education and finally offer future research areas and questions in the respected area they have been studying. This volume provides diverse and leading voices in the future of STEM education and STEM education research.

Resources in Education, 1994     The 2010 Meltdown Edward E. Gordon, 2005-09-30 This is an indictment of current management and education practices that are creating a shortage of skilled labour. The march of technological development and globalisation continues to put pressure on all national economies, bringing opportunity for some and marginalisation for others. Nations will need to confront two coming economic shocks: a rise in the retired population and a shortage of young well educated people to fill a rising number of highly skilled technology related jobs. Ed Gordon marshals vast amounts of data to illustrate how these trends are quickly converging, creating a labour vacuum with potentially disastrous consequences. In The 2010 Meltdown Gordon sounds a wake up call to anyone with a stake in our economic future. Beyond the demographic issues, he notes that such cultural factors as Wall Street's obsession with short term results and the neglect of maths and science skills at school are contributing to a fundamental mismatch between labour supply and demand. But the news is not all grim. Gordon highlights innovative initiatives in training, education and community development in the U S and around the world that can serve as models for positive change.

This text includes not only empirically validated instructional strategies but an array of relevant topics such as the application of technology to the field and implications for changing demographics within U S schools. Each chapter in the book follows a pattern of instruction by providing key topics, key questions, scenarios, Technology Spotlights, teacher tips, summary statements and review questions. This consistency in format throughout the text helps facilitate learning for both instructor and student Each chapter also includes the Council for Exceptional Children CEC standards that are addressed within the chapter helping instructors align course content to accreditation standards      Associations Canada ,2004
