Launching Democracy in South Africa Richard William Johnson,Lawrence Schlemmer,1996-01-01 South Africa s first ever non racial and multi party election was perhaps the most significant global event of 1994 From the ashes of a repressive segregated and racist state emerged miraculously and relatively free from bloodshed a new multi racial nation led by one of the political icons of the late twentieth century Nelson Mandela Based on a large scale and non partisan public information project this book is the definitive account of the process of democratisation in South Africa The Launching Democracy project mounted teams of observers and monitored the campaign party organisation the media and voter education efforts throughout the crucial and populous areas of the Western Cape Natal and the Reef The result is an unparalleled source of information about the way the election really worked and the political sociology of South Africa in general Written by a team of distinguished experts the book analyses the results of the election in detail and publishes them in full for the first time It examines the intricacies of the disputed electoral process and the drama of the count revealing irregularities rivalry and widespread fear and intimidation In a highly readable final section the book carries the story into the post election reality exploring popular opinion and the demands now facing the Mandela government Philosophising in Mombasa Kai Kresse, 2007-05-16 Philosophising in Mombasa provides an approach to the anthropological study of philosophical discourses in the Swahili context of Mombasa Kenya In this historically established Muslim environment at the dawn of the twenty first century philosophy is investigated as social discourse and intellectual practice situated in everyday life This is done from the perspective of an anthropology of philosophy a project which is spelled out in the opening chapter Entry points and guidelines for the ethnography are provided by discussions of Swahili literary genres life histories and social debates From here local discourses of knowledge are described and analysed The social environment and discursive dynamics of the Old Town are portrayed firstly by means of following and contextualising informal discussions among neighbours and friends at daily meeting points in the streets and secondly by presenting and discussing in depth case studies of local intellectuals and their contributions to moral and intellectual debates within the community Taking recurrent internal discussions on social affairs politics and appropriate Islamic conduct as a focus this study sheds light on local practices of critique and reflection In particular three local intellectuals two poets one Islamic scholar are portrayed against the background of regional intellectual history Islamic scholarship as well as common public debates and private discussions The three contextual portrayals discuss exemplary issues for the wider field of research on philosophical discourse in Mombasa and the Swahili context on the whole with reference to the lives and projects of distinct individual thinkers Ultimately the study directs attention beyond the regional and the African contexts towards the anthropological study of knowledge and intellectual practice around the world Krygshistoriese Tydskrif, 2004 Athenaeum and Literary Chronicle James Silk Buckingham, John Sterling, Frederick Denison Maurice, Henry Stebbing, Charles Wentworth Dilke, Thomas Kibble Hervey, William Hepworth Dixon, Norman Maccoll, Vernon Horace Rendall, John Middleton Murry, 1891 Scientific Racism in Modern South Africa Saul Dubow, 1995-06-30 A study of the history of intellectual and scientific racism in modern South Africa Moving Picture World and View Photographer, 1916 Daily Report, 1975 Knowledge and Power in South Africa Jonathan D.
