Volume 2

Fruit of that Africa, the great, the pure, the traditional and the nostalgic, Letter to Tita is food for thought. It's a deep investigation which, not withstanding the simplicity of subjects and illustrations, raises the debates of the moment. Those of an Africa that seems to be caught in a trap, as during the colonial era or the era of Pyrrhic independence.

It's a voice that spins in order to shake a continent which drags on to go, with its cultural substratum, to the appointment of global construction.

The text presents the inhabitants of Zilan-village bruised by imposed and maladjusted political and economic models that sink into the pitiless misadventures of globalisation. What remains of their wealth of yesteryear symbolised by Tita ? How do they perceive the future ? And what future ?

After a first volume, which is an unquestionable delight of colourful clichés of that Africa which is dying, volume 2 is a real lampoon in which the author exposes, in barely veiled denunciation, the devastations of modernity.

Of a rare wealth, the second volume of Letter to Tita is therefore, without doubt, a serious regermination of the emergency of a debate on awareness and blooming around an Africa certainly tormented, but which should finally regain its self control in order to fulfil itself by making appropriate choices.

Jeanne Marie Rosette Abou'ou was born on August 14th 1969 at Sangmelima, South Region of Cameroon. Holder of a Master's Degree in Political Sciences, Guidance Counsellor from the Higher Teacher's Training College of Yaounde and graduate from CRADAT (DESS/ GRD), she is moreover a holder of a double certificate from ENA of Paris in "Management of Human Resources and Management in Public Service" then in "Conception and Evaluation of Public Policies".
