

SECTION A

Answer one question from this section.

1. Informatic

Informatic manufactures computers and is based in Sri Lanka. Informatic uses a method of batch production and manufactures batches of computers according to customer specifications such as computer speed and screen size. Production workers are paid by the hour but receive a lower than average wage for Sri Lanka. To compensate they are offered long-term job security and other non-financial rewards.

Informatic exports 4000 computers a year to Pakistan using local independent distributors who have knowledge of the local market as well as experience in delivering and installing computers. 90% of Informatic's sales are organized through such distribution channels. Because using local independent distributors increases the final price of the computer to the customer, senior managers have decided to offer customers in Pakistan the opportunity to purchase computers directly from Informatic. Customers have to telephone orders to Informatic in Sri Lanka from Pakistan because e-commerce sales are not available.

The following are Informatic's expense and sales price figures:

- fixed costs of $100 000 per year
- variable costs of 80% of the sales price
- sales price of $1000 per computer

- (a)
 - (i) Define the term batch production. [2 marks]
 - (ii) Identify two fixed costs for Informatic. [2 marks]

- (c) Examine the effectiveness of the new distribution channel for Informatic. [5 marks]
