When you eat a food or beverage containing carbohydrates your body breaks down the carbs into a type of sugar called glucose. The glucose goes into your bloodstream and causes your blood glucose (blood sugar) levels to rise. Compared to low glycemic foods, high glycemic foods lead to a quicker and greater spike in blood sugar levels. These spikes are considered unhealthy for a few reasons. They raise your average blood glucose levels. They place a higher demand for insulin on your body. They lead to more dramatic dips in blood glucose after the spike, potentially causing hunger, carbohydrate cravings, and weakness. A low GI diet and meal plan can help you avoid the blood sugar roller coaster, but the GI is not on the nutrition label of most foods. Instead, you will probably look at a list of the GI of foods. The following are several low glycemic foods. The three GI ratings are: Low 55 or fewer, Medium 56-69, High 70 or more. Foods with a low GI value are the preferred choice. They're slowly digested and absorbed, causing a slower and smaller rise in blood sugar levels. On the other hand, foods with a high GI value should be limited. They're quickly digested and absorbed, resulting in a rapid rise and fall of blood sugar levels. You can use this database to find the GI value and glycemic load described below of common foods. It's important to note that foods are only assigned a GI value if they contain carbs. Hence, foods without carbs won't be found on GI lists.

Low Glycemic Diet Cookbook For Beginners and Dummies Sharon Bronson, 2020-08-21 The low glycemic diet is a low carbohydrate diet that is very popular and recent. Although it has been around for two decades as a means of controlling blood sugar in diabetics it really began receiving a lot of attention from the general public when it was first introduced. Not well known weight loss regimen has the South Beach Diet and the Zone Diet and Nutrition Very healthy diet low glycemic diet based on the glycemic index GI which is designed to help people make food choices that will not only help them maintain a healthy blood glucose level but also make this easier for them. However I don't mind reading the whole thing for a reason and the understanding of the glycemic index and the concept of low glycemic food was created in the early 1980s by Dr David Jenkins at the Department of Nutrition Science at the University of Toronto. It was originally designed as a way of helping to manage blood sugar levels but now it has been used by those who want to live healthier. The GI is a measurement of the effect certain carbohydrate containing foods have on your blood sugar. Under the glycemic index diet it uses a number from 1 to 100 and the higher the number the more the food you eat will raise your blood glucose level. The glycemic index is the best way to identify low glycemic food that will allow you to regulate your blood sugar without having all the extreme rapid fluctuations. It was created by measuring the changes in blood sugar that occurred after eating a standard amount of food and then ranking them based on the effect.
