Linear and Nonlinear Programming David G. Luenberger,Yinyu Ye,2021-10-31 The 5th edition of this classic textbook covers the central concepts of practical optimization techniques with an emphasis on methods that are both state of the art and popular One major insight is the connection between the purely analytical character of an optimization problem and the behavior of algorithms used to solve that problem End of chapter exercises are provided for all chapters The material is organized into three separate parts Part I offers a self contained introduction to linear programming The presentation in this part is fairly conventional covering the main elements of the underlying theory of linear programming many of the most effective numerical algorithms and many of its important special applications Part II which is independent of Part I covers the theory of unconstrained optimization including both derivations of the appropriate optimality conditions and an introduction to basic algorithms This part of the book explores the general properties of algorithms and defines various notions of convergence In turn Part III extends the concepts developed in the second part to constrained optimization problems Except for a few isolated sections this part is also independent of Part I As such Parts II and III can easily be used without reading Part I and in fact the book has been used in this way at many universities New to this edition are popular topics in data science and machine learning such as the Markov Decision Process Farkas lemma convergence speed analysis duality theories and applications various first order methods stochastic gradient method mirror descent method Frank Wolf method ALM ADMM method interior trust region method for non convex optimization distributionally robust optimization online linear programming semidefinite programming for sensor network localization and infeasibility detection for nonlinear optimization

Recent Developments in Aerodynamics Arash Shams Taleghani, Farschad Torabi ,Mohammad Mehdi Rashidi,2025-01-24 Aerodynamics is a branch of fluid mechanics that deals with the motion of air and other gaseous fluids and the forces acting on bodies in motion relative to such fluids Aerodynamics are classified according to Mach number into incompressible subsonic compressible subsonic transonic supersonic and hypersonic aerodynamics Aerodynamics can be divided into different forms of internal or external aerodynamics For example the study of flow properties inside a gas turbine or rocket engine is an example of internal aerodynamics that is important in accurately estimating thrust force Examples of external aerodynamics include the flow around the body of airplanes helicopters space capsules cars rockets and missiles trains ships wind turbines and even such structures as bridges and tall buildings which often have to withstand strong winds Since the first human flights until today aerodynamics has been growing and developing rapidly Aerodynamics is one of the applied sciences in engineering that pursues several goals such as estimating forces moments on objects moving in the air or estimating heat transfer from these objects Aerodynamics investigates how gases interact with moving bodies The main purpose of aerodynamics in most cases is to reduce drag forces and increase lift force which can lead to less fuel consumption in vehicles and achieving the greatest speed Of course in some special cases such as hypersonic aerodynamics there is a greater interest in increasing drag to reduce the adverse effects of aerodynamic heating Another goal of studying aerodynamics is to obtain the details of the flow around flying objects For example the correct operation of a control rudder or flap in a supersonic aircraft or the recognition of the phenomenon of blackout during spacecraft reentry which occurs under the influence of aerothermodynamic heating and plasma formed around the antenna is of great importance
