How does each level of government exercise legislative power?

1. Differentiate the Congressional process based on the chambers.

It is a two-step process. First, the House and Senate must agree on the bill. Then, the bill is sent to the President for his signature. If the President vetoes the bill, Congress can override the veto with a two-thirds vote in both chambers.

2. Name and describe the Congressional process.

The Congressional process is a two-step process.

It begins with a bill introduced in the House or Senate.

It then moves to the other chamber for approval.

It then moves to the President for signature.

It then moves to the courts.

3. Describe the legislative authority of Congress under Article I (the House and Senate make laws, propose amendments to the Constitution, and have the power to impeach).

The House and Senate have the power to propose and pass laws.

It is the duty of the President to execute the laws passed by Congress.

The House and Senate have the power to propose and pass amendments to the Constitution. The President has the power to veto laws passed by Congress.

4. Explain the difference between proposed and passed legislation.

Proposed legislation is a bill that has been introduced in Congress.

Passed legislation is a bill that has been approved by both the House and Senate.

5. What are the responsibilities of legislative power? Explain at least 3 examples.
