Crs Report for Congress Congressional Research Service: The Libr, June S. Beittel, 2013-11 Violence is an inherent feature of the trade in illicit drugs but the violence generated by Mexico s drug trafficking organizations DTOs in recent years has been unprecedented and remarkably brutal The tactics including mass killings the use of torture and dismemberment and the phenomena of car bombs have led some analysts to speculate whether the violence has been transformed into something new perhaps requiring a different set of policy responses Most analysts estimate there have been at least 60 000 homicides related to organized crime since 2006 Some analysts see evidence that the number of organized crime style homicides in Mexico may have reached a plateau in 2012 while other observers maintain there was a decline in the number of killings It is widely believed that the steep increase in organized crime related homicides during the six year administration of Mexican President Felipe Calderon 2006 2012 is likely to trend down far more slowly than it rose and endemic corruption of Mexico's judicial and law enforcement systems In December 2019 Genaro Garcia Luna a former top security minister under the Felipe Calderón Administration 2006-2012 was arrested in the United States on charges he had taken enormous bribes from the Sinaloa Cartel Mexico Congressional Research Service,2017-04-15 The notorious drug trafficking kingpin Joaquín El Chapo Guzmán is now imprisoned in the United States awaiting trial following the Mexican government's decision to extradite him to the United States on January 19 2017 the day before President Trump took office Guzmán is charged with operating a continuing criminal enterprise and conducting drug related crimes as the purported leader of the Mexican criminal syndicate commonly known as the Sinaloa cartel The U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration DEA maintains that the Sinaloa cartel has the widest reach of any transnational criminal organization into U.S. cities In November 2016 in its National Drug Threat Assessment the DEA stated that Mexican drug trafficking groups are working to expand their presence particularly in the heroin markets inside the United States Over the years Mexico's criminal groups have trafficked heroin methamphetamine cocaine marijuana and increasingly the powerful synthetic opioid fentanyl Mexico's drug trafficking organizations DTOs have been in constant flux By some accounts in 2006 there were four dominant DTOs the Tijuana Arellano Félix organization AFO the Sinaloa cartel the Juárez Vicente Carrillo Fuentes organization CFO and the Gulf cartel Since then the more stable large organizations have fractured In recent years the DEA has identified the following organizations as dominant Sinaloa Los Zetas Tijuana AFO Juárez CFO Beltrán Leyva Gulf and La Familia Michoacana In some sense these organizations might be viewed as the traditional DTOs although the 7 organizations appear to have fragmented to at least 9 or as many as 20 major organizations New crime groups have emerged since Mexican President Enrique Peña Nieto's inauguration in December 2012 so he has faced an increasingly complex crime situation The major DTOs and new crime groups have furthered their expansion into such illicit activity as extortion kidnapping for ransom and oil siphoning posing a governance challenge to President Peña Nieto as daunting as that faced by his predecessors Former Mexican President Felipe Calderón 2006-2012 initiated an aggressive campaign against Mexico's drug traffickers that was a defining policy of his government and one that the DTOs violently resisted Operations to eliminate DTO leaders sparked organizational change that led to significant instability among the groups and continued violence Such violence appears to be rising again in Mexico More than 2 000 homicides were registered in January 2017 more than in any January since the government began publishing national crime data in the late 1980s Although the Mexican government no longer estimates organized crime related homicides some independent analysts have claimed that murders linked to organized crime may have exceeded 100 000 since 2006 when President Calderón began his campaign against the DTOs Mexico's government reported that the annual number of all homicides in Mexico declined after Calderón left office in 2012 by about 16% in 2013 and 15% in 2014 only to rise in 2015 and 2016 In 2016 the Mexican government reported a 22% increase in all homicides to 22 932 almost reaching the high point of nearly 23 000 murders in 2011 Mexico's most violent year The 115th

Congress remains concerned about security conditions inside Mexico and the illicit drug trade. Cartels at War Paul Rexton Kan, 2012-10-31. Now in its sixth year, the conflict in Mexico is a mosaic of several wars occurring at once: cartels battle one another, cartels suffer violence within their own organizations, cartels fight against the Mexican state, cartels and gangs wage war against the Mexican people, and gangs combat gangs. The war has killed more than 60,000 people since President Felipe Calderón began cracking down on the cartels in December 2006. The targets of the violence have been wide ranging, from police officers to journalists, from clinics to discos. Governments on either side of the U.S. Mexican border have been unable to control the violence. The war has spilled over into American cities and affects domestic policy issues ranging from immigration to gun control, making the border the nexus of national security and public safety concerns. Drawing on fieldwork along the border and interviews with officials at the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Office of National Drug Control Policy, the Department of Defense, U.S. Border Patrol, and Mexican military officers, Paul Rexton Kan argues that policy responses must be carefully calibrated to prevent stoking more cartel violence, to cut the incentives to smuggle drugs into the United States, and to stop the erosion of Mexican governmental capacity. True Teen Stories from Mexico Derek Miller, 2018-07-15. Though many Mexican states are peaceful and feature lifestyles not unlike those enjoyed by other North Americans, regions of Mexico are plagued by violence and terror. In 2016, more than twenty thousand people were killed in the country as a direct consequence of the drug wars. This volume highlights the experiences of teens who have lived through the violence. Background information sheds light on how crime gangs and drugs became such a pressing problem in Mexico. This book also looks forward, discussing potential solutions for achieving peace. Drug Cartels Do Not Exist Oswaldo Zavala, 2022-05-15. What if narco violence and trafficking do not threaten the state but are actually central to its operations?
