This book explores from an independent point of view the current state of the STM publishing market, new publishing technologies and business models as well as the information habit of researchers, the politics of research funders and the demand for scientific research as a public good. Hello World Hannah Fry, 2018-09-18 Shortlisted for the 2018 Baillie Gifford Prize and the 2018 Royal Society Investment Science Book Prize. A beautifully accessible guide. One of the best books yet written on data and algorithms. Times UK. If you were accused of a crime, who would you rather decide your sentence, a mathematically consistent algorithm incapable of empathy or a compassionate human judge prone to bias and error What if you want to buy a driverless car and must choose between one programmed to save as many lives as possible and another that prioritizes the lives of its own passengers And would you agree to share your family's full medical history if you were told that it would help researchers find a cure for cancer These are just some of the dilemmas that we are beginning to face as we approach the age of the algorithm when it feels as if the machines reign supreme Already these lines of code are telling us what to watch where to go whom to date and even whom to send to jail But as we rely on algorithms to automate big important decisions in crime justice healthcare transportation and money they raise questions about what we want our world to look like What matters most Helping doctors with diagnosis or preserving privacy Protecting victims of crime or preventing innocent people being falsely accused Hello World takes us on a tour through the good the bad and the downright ugly of the algorithms that surround us on a daily basis Mathematician Hannah Fry reveals their inner workings showing us how algorithms are written and implemented and demonstrates the ways in which human bias can literally be written into the code By weaving in relatable real world stories with accessible explanations of the underlying mathematics that power algorithms Hello World helps us to determine their power expose their limitations and examine whether they really are improvement on the human systems they replace

Minimum Deterrence: Examining the Evidence Keith B. Payne, James Schlesinger, 2016-04-14 The National Institute for Public Policy's new book Minimum Deterrence Examining the Evidence is the first of its kind Dr Keith Payne former Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger and an unparalleled bipartisan group of senior civilian and military experts critically examine eight basic assumptions of Minimum Deterrence against available evidence In general Minimum Deterrence does not fare well under the careful scrutiny Proponents of a Minimum Deterrent US nuclear force posture believe that anywhere from a handful to a few hundred nuclear weapons are adequate to deter reliably and predictably any enemy from attacking the United States now and in the future Because nuclear weapons are so destructive their thinking goes no foreign leader would dare challenge US capabilities The benefits advocates claim of reducing US nuclear weapons to the minimum level needed are better relations with Russia and China reinforcement of the arms control and Nonproliferation Treaty billions of defense dollars in savings and greater international stability on the way to nuclear zero As political pressure builds to pursue this vision of minimum US deterrence Minimum Deterrence Examining the Evidence stands as the seminal study to address the many claims of great benefit using available evidence This book was published as a special issue of Comparative Strategy Studies in Intelligence, 2016 Drawing Futures Bob

Sheil, Frédéric Migayrou, Luke Pearson, Laura Allen, 2016-11-11 Drawing Futures brings together international designers and artists for speculations in contemporary drawing for art and architecture Despite numerous developments in technological manufacture and computational design that provide new grounds for designers the act of drawing still plays a central role as a vehicle for speculation There is a rich and long history of drawing tied to innovations in technology as well as to revolutions in our philosophical understanding of the world In reflection of a society now underpinned by computational networks and interfaces allowing hitherto unprecedented views of the world the changing status of the drawing and its representation as a political act demands a platform for reflection and innovation Drawing Futures will present a compendium of projects writings and interviews that critically reassess the act of drawing and where its future may lie Drawing Futures focuses on the discussion of how the field of drawing may expand synchronously alongside technological and computational developments The book coincides with an international conference of the same name taking place at The Bartlett School of Architecture UCL in November 2016 Bringing together practitioners from many creative fields the book discusses how drawing is changing in relation to new technologies for the production and dissemination of ideas Yearbook of
