Copying the Master and Stealing His Secrets Brenda G. Jordan, Victoria Louise Weston, 2003-01-01 Examines the transmission of painting traditions in Japan

Practicing the Afterlife Susanne Formanek, William R. LaFleur, 2004 How do people in Japan conceive of life after death Although many Japanese today claim that on their archipelago there has never been much interest in this topic the evidence presented here shows otherwise Documenting a rich range of historical as well as contemporary scenarios that present life as going on after death these essays also show individuals and whole communities acting on the belief that the line between the living and the dead is porous and that it makes sense even now to practice the life one will have after becoming dead They thus not only bring forward aspects of Japan obscured until now but also can contribute to our own current discussions of life dying and death

Proteomics in Practice Reiner Westermeier, Tom Naven, Hans-Rudolf Höpker, 2008-09-08 Still the only concise practical guide to laboratory experiments in proteomics this new edition now also covers DIGE technology and liquid chromatography while the troubleshooting section has been considerably extended Adopting a practical approach the authors present the relevant techniques and explain the route to successful experimental design and optimal method selection They cover such electrophoretic techniques as isoelectric focusing SDS page 2 D page and DIGE as well as liquid chromatography techniques such as ion exchange affinity chromatography and reversed phase HPLC Mass spectrometric techniques include MALDI ESI and FT ICR Generously illustrated partly in color the book also features updates of protocols as well as animations illustrating crucial methodological steps on a companion website

Dōgen Studies William R. LaFleur, 2021-05-25 The induction of D gen into the modern academic world or per haps more accurately the academic world s first real engagement with D gen came about 1924 when Watsuji Tetsur 1889 1960 published a provocative essay entitled Shaman D gen It was this essay that to many of Watsuji's contemporaries seemed to rescue Dogen from what they considered to be his entrapment for nearly seven centuries in the sectarian embrace of the Soto school. Watsuji insisted that Dogen no longer should be thought of as belonging exclusively to the monastic community. Claiming instead that Dogen belongs to mankind, Watsuji with this declaration initiated the non-sectarian study of this thirteenth-century figure and in effect commenced what are called Dogen Studies (Dogen kenkyū) in modern times. As one way of exploring what it might possibly mean to say that Dogen belongs to mankind, the Kuroda Institute held a conference on Dogen at Tassajara Springs, California, from October 8 to 10, 1981. The essays of this volume are a part of its result.

RAISING RACE CONSCIOUSNESS Audre Lorde, 1982. What propelled me to write this book? In addition to being nudged by Spirit and my own Inner Guidance, I took a look around. What is this fixation on race, sex, gender, religion, class that preoccupies so many of our species? Where is our plentiful joy and wonder at the magnificence of Creation? More importantly, what can we do about any lack of wonder? Who are we anyway, and why are we here? Personally, I am fascinated by the diversity and combinations in which we humans flourish with our multitude of talents, looks, and abilities. I love our creativity, our amazingly diverse yet similar energies and vibrations. To me, this variety is something to be honored and treasured, a reflection of the artistry and abundance of Creation. Despite the beauty that exists within diversity, racial, sexual, gender, and so on, some of us appear to feel, believe, and act as if our variety is an issue going so far as to behave inimically toward others who outwardly look or seem different. From where do these attitudes stem, and where do these perceptions lead? Is separation along color, sex, gender, religious lines what anyone truly desires in the core of his or her being? It is indicative of a culture with distorted ideas about race that people can even figure out what looking alike and looking different mean. How are these differences of coloration interpreted? In a culture that loved our multiplicity of being, we would have a different conception of alike and different, as well as different feelings and vibrations within ourselves. We are in a new millennium. We have the time, space, place, resonance to be the enlightened beings that we are. The choice is open to each and every one of us.

Enlightenment Unfolds Dōgen, 1999. Eihei Dogen (1200-1253) is unquestionably one of the most significant religious figures in Japanese history. The founder of the Soto school of Zen, he was a prolific writer whose works have instructed and inspired for more than seven hundred years, and who used everything from poetry to the mundane details of everyday life in a monastery to illuminate Zen teaching. Enlightenment Unfolds contains works written by Dogen throughout his life, presented in chronological order, beginning with the journal from his study in China, providing a substantial selection from his masterwork Treasury of the True Dharma Eye, and concluding with his spare but eloquent death poem. A number of the selections appear here in English for the first time.

The Complex World of Teaching Ethan Mintz, John T. Yun, 1999. In this collection of the best writing on teaching and teachers from the Harvard Educational Review, authors discuss the multiple demands, distractions, desires, and dilemmas that teachers face in their daily work. Geologists study volcanoes for years yet cannot predict exactly which will be the next to erupt. Meteorologists use highly advanced technology to study weather patterns but cannot forecast the weather with certainty Teachers can present the same lesson to two classes only to have it succeed one time and fail the next Why is there such uncertainty in these situations Because these are all complex systems In the complex world of teaching teachers face numerous unpredictable challenges from the dynamic interactions of teacher student curriculum school community and culture How do teachers manage to teach in such a complex world To answer this question the Editors of the Harvard Educational Review have collected the best writings on teaching published in the Review in The Complex World of Teaching Part One Inner Worlds explores the private aspects of teachers and students lives that although hidden have a great impact on teaching and learning Part Two Outer Worlds focuses on how powerful economic social political and cultural forces from outside the classroom shape the work of teachers and students Part Three The Complex World of Teaching illuminates how the intersection of the inner and outer worlds creates the dynamic complexity that is both the joy and the frustration of teaching The Complex World of Teaching refuses to reduce teaching to a set of recipes or to talk about teaching abstracted from practice The Editors have combined theoretical chapters with studies from individual classrooms written by teachers themselves to capture the true complexity of teaching Readers can join teachers as they recount their struggles and triumphs in the classroom pieces and then move to the theoretical pieces to analyze the larger forces that shape those moments
