In left-sided heart failure, peripheral vascular resistance has increased making the left ventricle work harder. Over time, the left ventricle weakens and eventually fails. The most common cause of left-sided heart failure is hypertension. Blood backs up from the left ventricle into the left atrium, pulmonary veins, and lungs. Therefore, signs and symptoms of left-sided heart failure are respiratory in nature.

Causes of right-sided heart failure:

- Left-sided heart failure
- Atrial septal defect
- Cor pulmonale
