Après plus de deux cents ans d'exploitation charbonnière et trente ans de reconversion le bassin minier du Nord-Pas de Calais termine la mutation de l'après-charbon. La mine a profondément marqué les territoires, les paysages, les hommes et les femmes, c'est toute une région qui a été soumise à la domination d'une industrie, ce sont des identités individuelles et collectives qui se sont construites, transmises et qui continuent de guider les comportements. Au terme de cette période charbonnière des chercheurs des sciences humaines, des acteurs de la vie locale, des associations ont voulu dresser un état des lieux. C'est celui-ci que présente cet ouvrage qui contient pour chacun des domaines de la vie sociale, économique et culturelle les discours croisés des chercheurs scientifiques, des personnes qui vivent quotidiennement les transformations du bassin minier, de photographes qui leur manière nous disent ce que représente la mine aujourd'hui. Ces trois discours sur la mine nous entraînent dans une vision renouvelée des territoires, des vies des mineurs et des espérances. Ils construisent les bases de ce qui pourrait être un avenir pour un pays qui cesse progressivement d'être dépendant de l'exploitation du charbon. Cet ouvrage a été réalisé après trois années de recherches conduites au sein du programme Anthropologie du bassin minier de l'Institut français de recherche sur les sociétés industrielles du CNRS avec le concours de la Région Nord-Pas de Calais, de la Mission du patrimoine ethnologique du Ministère de la Culture et de la Direction Régionale des Affaires Culturelles.
