

- 1 An examination paper consists of 8 questions, of which one is on geometric distributions and one is on binomial distributions.
- (i) If the 8 questions are arranged in a random order, find the probability that the question on geometric distributions is next to the question on binomial distributions. [3]
- Four of the questions, including the one on geometric distributions, are worth 7 marks each, and the remaining four questions, including the one on binomial distributions, are worth 9 marks each. The 7-mark questions are the first four questions on the paper, but are arranged in random order. The 9-mark questions are the last four questions, but are arranged in random order. Find the probability that
- (ii) the questions on geometric distributions and on binomial distributions are next to one another, [3]
- (iii) the questions on geometric distributions and on binomial distributions are separated by at least 2 other questions. [4]
- (Q8, Jan 2005)

- 2 A committee of 7 people is to be chosen at random from 18 volunteers.
- (i) In how many different ways can the committee be chosen? [2]
- The 18 volunteers consist of 5 people from Gloucester, 6 from Hereford and 7 from Worcester. The committee is to be chosen randomly. Find the probability that the committee will
- (ii) consist of 2 people from Gloucester, 2 people from Hereford and 3 people from Worcester. [4]
- (iii) include exactly 5 people from Worcester. [4]
- (iv) include at least 2 people from each of the three cities. [4]
- (Q7, June 2005)

- 3 Each of the 7 letters in the word DIVIDED is printed on a separate card. The cards are arranged in a row.
- (i) How many different arrangements of the letters are possible? [3]
- (ii) In how many of these arrangements are all three Ds together? [2]
- The 7 cards are now shuffled and 2 cards are selected at random, without replacement.
- (iii) Find the probability that at least one of these 2 cards has D printed on it. [3]

Mei June 2013 S1 Paper:

The Bird and the Cage Nicholas Borst, 2025-03-28 The Chinese Communist Party's complex and contradictory embrace of capitalism has played a pivotal role in shaping China's economic reforms since the late 1970s. This book explores the persistent tensions between state control and market forces in China. It shows how these tensions provide a framework to understand Xi Jinping's recent efforts to tighten control over the Chinese economy. The book evaluates the broader implications of these policies for China's economic trajectory and its global trade relationships.

Heritage, Memory, and Punishment Shu-Mei Huang, Hyun-Kyung Lee, 2019-09-23 Based on a transnational study of decommissioned postcolonial prisons in Taiwan, Taipei and Chiayi, South Korea, Seoul and China, Lushun, this book offers a critical reading of prisons as a particular colonial product, the current restoration of which as national heritage is closely related to the evolving conceptualization of punishment. Focusing on the colonial prisons built by the Japanese Empire in the first half of the twentieth century, it illuminates how punishment has been considered a subject of modernization while the contemporary use of prisons as heritage tends to reduce the process of colonial modernity to oppression and atrocity, thus constituting a heritage of shame and death which postcolonial societies blame upon the former colonizers. A study of how the remembering of punishment and imprisonment reflects the attempts of postcolonial cities to re-articulate an understanding of the present by correcting the past. Heritage, Memory, and Punishment examines how prisons were designed, built, partially demolished, preserved, and redeveloped across political regimes, demonstrating the ways in which the selective use of prisons as heritage reframed through nationalism leaves marks on urban contexts that remain long after the prisons themselves are decommissioned. As such, it will appeal to scholars of sociology, geography, the built environment, and heritage, with interests in memory studies and dark tourism.

Information Computing and Applications Yuhang Yang, Maode Ma, Baoxiang Liu, 2013-12-19 This two-volume set of CCIS 391 and CCIS 392 constitutes the refereed proceedings of the Fourth International Conference on Information Computing and Applications (ICICA 2013) held in Singapore in August 2013. China's Energy Security and Relations With Petrostates Anna Kuteleva, 2021-07-26 This book examines the development of bilateral energy relations between China and the two oil-rich countries, Kazakhstan and Russia. Challenging conventional assumptions about energy politics and China's global quest for oil, this book examines the interplay of politics and sociocultural contexts. It shows how energy resources become ideas and how these ideas are mobilized in the realm of international relations. China's relations with Kazakhstan and Russia are simultaneously enabled and constrained by the discursive politics of oil. It is argued that to build collaborative and constructive energy relations with China its partners in Kazakhstan Russia and elsewhere must consider not only the material realities of China s energy industry and the institutional settings of China s energy policy but also the multiple symbolic meanings that energy resources and particularly oil acquire in China China s Energy Security and Relations with Petrostates offers a nuanced understanding of China s bilateral energy relations with Kazakhstan and Russia raising essential questions about the social logic of international energy politics It will appeal to students and scholars of international relations energy security Chinese and post Soviet studies along with researchers working in the fields of energy policy and environmental sustainability China's International Transboundary Rivers Lei Xie,Jia Shaofeng,2017-12-06

China has forty major transboundary watercourses with neighbouring countries and has frequently been accused of harming its downstream neighbours through its domestic water management policies such as the construction of dams for hydropower This book provides an understanding of water security in Asia by investigating how shared water resources affect China s relationships with neighbouring countries in South East Southeast and Central Asia Since China is an upstream state on most of its shared transboundary rivers the country s international water policy is at the core of Asia s water security These water disputes have had strong implications for China s interstate relations and also influenced its international water policy alongside domestic concerns over water resource management This book investigates China s policy responses to domestic water crises and examines China s international water policy as well as its strategy in dealing with international cooperation The authors describe the key elements of water diplomacy in Asia which demonstrate varying degrees of effectiveness of environmental agreements It shows how China has established various institutional arrangements with neighbouring countries primarily in the form of bilateral agreements over hydrological data exchange Detailed case studies are included of the Mekong Brahmaputra Ili and Amur rivers Use of Mass Cytometry to Study Human Diseases involving the Immune

Pazos-Vidal,2019-02-25 This book examines the theory and praxis of the legal concept of subsidiarity and the policy paradigm of multilevel governance providing an updated overview on how subnational and national authorities engage within the EU institutional framework Providing a theoretical assessment of real life case studies the book reflects on a number of key events from the negotiations of the European Convention to the process that led to the Brexit referendum and assesses the key agendas and institutional ethos of most actors involved in EU policymaking It particularly focusses on the EU engagement of so called non privileged actors such as subnational authorities from the UK Germany Austria Italy the Netherlands and Scandinavia as well as national and regional parliaments The author goes on to examine the sometimes selfish behaviour and individual agendas of the European Commission European Parliament Member States and even the European Court of Justice but also identifies many constructive ways of interaction that can decisively frame how EU decisions are made This comprehensive book will be a useful reference to students practitioners and academic researchers working in European politics policymaking public policy and EU law and integration Prevention and treatment of cardiovascular disease with integrated traditional chinese and western medicine Hongcai Shang,Dongfeng Qu,Rong-Rong He,Yaozu Xiang,Guanwei Fan,Thomas Efferth,2024-02-26 Applied Science & Technology Index ,1996
