Ksscience Paper 2009:

China in 2020 Angang Hu, 2012-11-26 Explains how China as the world's largest emerging market will impact global economic growth FDI flows energy consumption climate change and other arenas with a proposed strategic framework that would guide the country's rise while maximizing positive impacts and minimizing any negative externalities Provided by publisher Energy Resources for Human Settlement in the Solar System and Earth's Future in Space William A. Ambrose, James F. Reilly II, Douglas C. Peters, 2013-03-14 The book's purpose is to provide the quantitative foundation for beginning to think about developing energy and minerals outside of Earth's atmosphere that are necessary to support scientific missions space and extra terrestrial scientific stations and permanent colonies and ultimately expand Earth's economy beyond the near earth environment to include space resources We cannot envision a situation where all resources required for future space activities are exported from Earth therefore this book clearly illustrates that an effective economy is possible beyond Earth's surface when we consider the resources available in near Earth space Our first audience is members of AAPG American Institute of Mining Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers AIME and other professionals engaged in energy and resource development As energy professionals we are concerned on a daily basis with providing the necessary energy and minerals required for our growing world population and the increasing standard of living that comes with ample energy availability And more than anything else AAPG members are explorers We are the professionals who have pushed back the boundaries of our resource base from capturing petroleum resources from surface seeps to drilling onshore wells to extract oil and gas and to venturing offshore into increasingly difficult and hostile environments to supply the cheap and abundant energy made available by our advances in technology There are more similarities than differences between deepwater exploration and development and space exploration Beyond our own members however our audience is every rational human being who understands human health and well being quality of life education and freedom are dependent on the energy and minerals that support our advanced civilization Space is the next frontier and as the world civilization expands beyond Earth's surface we hope this publication serves to illustrate there are abundant opportunities to support and maintain and in fact allow to prosper civilization's expansion into space Publisher's website Managing Famine, Flood and Earthquake in China Lauri Paltemaa, 2015-10-05 China suffers frequently from many types of natural disasters which have affected the lives of many millions of Chinese The steps which the Chinese state has taken to prevent disasters mitigate their consequences and reconstruct in the aftermath of disasters are therefore key issues This book examines the single metropolis of Tianjin in northern China a city which has suffered particularly badly from natural disasters the great famine of 1958-61 the great flood of 1963 and the great earthquake of 1976 It discusses how the city managed these disasters what policies and measures were taken to prevent and mitigate disasters and to promote reconstruction afterwards It also explores who suffered from and who benefited from the disasters Overall the book shows how disaster management was erratic sometimes managed highly efficiently and in other cases disappointingly delayed and inept. It concludes that although the Maoist state possessed formidable resources disaster management was always constrained by other political and economic considerations and was never an automatic priority.

Feminism Counts Christina Hughes, Rachel Cohen, 2013-09-13 This is an important and timely text that provides a unique overview of contemporary quantitative approaches to gender research. The contributors are internationally recognised researchers from the UK, USA and Sweden who occupy a range of disciplinary locations including historical demography, sociology and policy studies. Their research includes explorations of heterosexual and same sex violence, media responses to feminist research, data sources for the study of inequalities, approaches for analysing global and local demographic change and intersectional concerns in respect of work and employment. Through detailed sophisticated and thoughtful considerations of the place of quantification within gender studies and the place of feminist approaches to quantification, each contributor overturns the stereotype that quantitative research is antithetical to feminism by demonstrating its importance for challenging continuing global inequalities associated with gendered outcomes. An introductory chapter illustrates the significance of geography and discipline in the take up of methodological preferences. Feminism Counts: Quantitative Methods and Researching Gender makes an important contribution to the ways in which feminists respond to contemporary methodological and interdisciplinary challenges and is essential reading for all research students in gender studies. This book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Social Research Methodology.

The Financial and Economic Crisis of 2008-2009 and Developing Countries United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, 2010 As a response to the global financial and economic crisis that began in 2008, many developing and emerging market economies undertook resolute countercyclical monetary and fiscal actions which paralleled those of the developed countries These policy responses contributed significantly to the recovery of the world economy in 2010 and 2011 In particular the strong and fast responses of Brazil China and India helped mitigate deflationary risks and avoid a repetition of the Great Depression of the early 1930s On the other hand reforms of financial regulation and supervision are taking time to advance and little progress has been achieved so far in implementing measures to reduce global imbalances and to avoid a malfunctioning of the international exchange rate system These would contribute to greater coherence between the international trading and financial systems and to creating a more stable international economic environment for development This is a collection of papers that contribute to the debate on these topics putting the South at centre stage It examines how the countries of the South were affected by the global economic and financial crisis and how they responded to it

World Economic and Social Survey 2009 United Nations. Department of Economic and Social Affairs, United Nations, 2009 The separation in practice of climate change and development agendas has distorted the global debate on the two biggest policy challenges facing the international community According to the Survey an integrated approach based on the concept of sustainable development is urgently needed It argues that mitigation and adaptation can move forward effectively only if they are part of a consistent development strategy built around a massive investment led transformation along low emissions high growth paths The Survey also contends that a critical role must be played by developmental States able to mobilise public finance and build appropriate technological capacity
