En 1807, il devient ami intime de Coleridge qui le fait entrer dans le cercle des Poètes du Lac où il fait la connaissance entre autres de William Wordsworth. Il les rejoint pour quelque temps dans la région du Lake District. Entre 1812 et 1813, il consomme régulièrement de l'opium mais il arrive encore contrôler ses doses. Il pousse Margaret Simpson, fille de fermier qui lui donnera six enfants, il sera veuf en 1837. Ayant dilapidé sa fortune personnelle, il se lance dans une carrière de journaliste qui lui permettra de subvenir aux besoins de sa famille pour les trente années venant. En 1816, il s'installe à Dimbourg. Il devient totalement dépendant de l'opium, ce qui lui inspirera les Confessions d'un mangeur d'opium anglais (1822) où il s'analyse lucidement face à la drogue. Cet ouvrage sera commenté par Baudelaire et permettra au poète français de décrire les répercussions physiques et mentales de la prise d'opium dans son texte Les Paradis artificiels. Il est aussi évoqué dans le poème Cors de chasse d'Apollinaire dans Alcools.

Death in Literature Outi Hakola, Sari Kivistö, 2014-05-02. Death is an inevitable yet mysterious event. Fiction is one way to imagine and gain knowledge of death. Death is very useful to literature as it creates plot twists, suspense, mysteries and emotional effects in narrations. But more importantly, stories about death seem to have an existential importance to our lives. Stories provide fictional encounters with death and give meaning for both death and life. Thus, death is more than a physical or psychological experience; in literature, it also highlights existential questions concerning humanity and storytelling. This volume, entitled Death in Literature, approaches death by examining the narratives and spectacles of death, dying and mortality in different literary genres. The articles consider literary representations of death from ancient Rome to the Netherlands today and explore ways of dealing with death and dying. The discussions also transcend the boundaries of literature by studying literary representations of such socially relevant and death-related issues as euthanasia and suicide. The articles offer a broad perspective on death's role in literature as well as literature's role in the social and cultural debates about death.

Neurological Disorders in Famous Artists J. Bogousslavsky, Julien Bogousslavsky, F. Boller, 2005-07. The study of how a neurological disorder can change the artistic activity and behavior of creative people is a largely unexplored field. This publication looks closer at famous painters, writers, composers and philosophers of the 18th to the 20th centuries who suffered from neurological diseases such as stroke, epilepsy, brain trauma and dementia. The diseases of Gershwin, Kant, Musorgsky, Poe, Ravel, Van Gogh and many more are diagnosed in retrospect, and treatment options according to modern medical technologies are discussed. Presenting fascinating insights into the relationship between brain disease and creativity in famous minds, this publication is highly recommended to neurologists, psychiatrists, physicians as well as to everybody interested in art, music and literature.
