Indigenous Peoples' Governance of Land and Protected Territories in the Arctic Thora Martina Herrmann, Thibault Martin, 2015-12-22 This book addresses critical questions and analyses key issues regarding Indigenous Aboriginal Peoples and governance of land and protected areas in the Arctic. It brings together contributions from scientists indigenous and non indigenous researchers local leaders and members of the policy community that document Indigenous Aboriginal approaches to governance of land and protected areas at the local regional and international level explore new territorial governance models that are emerging as part of the Indigenous Aboriginal governance within Arctic States provinces territories and regions analyse the recognition or lack thereof concerning indigenous rights to self determination in the Arctic and examine how traditional decision making arrangements and practices can be linked with governments in the process of good governance. The book highlights essential lessons learned success stories and remaining issues all of which are useful to address issues of Arctic governance of land and protected areas today and which could also be relevant for future governance arrangements.

This Changes Everything Naomi Klein, 2014-09-16 The most important book yet from the author of the international bestseller The Shock Doctrine a brilliant explanation of why the climate crisis challenges us to abandon the core free market ideology of our time restructure the global economy and remake our political systems. In short either we embrace radical change ourselves or radical changes will be visited upon our physical world. The status quo is no longer an option. In This Changes Everything Naomi Klein argues that climate change isn't just another issue to be neatly filed between taxes and health care. It's an alarm that calls us to fix an economic system that is already failing us in many ways. Klein meticulously builds the case for how massively reducing our greenhouse emissions is our best chance to simultaneously reduce gaping inequalities re imagine our broken democracies and rebuild our gutted local economies. She exposes the ideological desperation of the climate change deniers the messianic delusions of the would be geoengineers and the tragic defeatism of too many mainstream green initiatives. And she demonstrates precisely why the market has not and cannot fix the climate crisis but will instead make things worse with ever more extreme and ecologically damaging extraction methods accompanied by rampant disaster capitalism. Klein argues that the changes to our relationship with nature and one another that are required to respond to the climate crisis humanely should not be viewed as grim penance but rather as a kind of gift a catalyst to transform broken economic and cultural priorities and to heal long festering historical wounds. And she documents the inspiring movements that have already begun this process communities that are not just refusing to be sites of further fossil fuel extraction but are building the next regeneration based economies right now. Can we pull off these changes in time? Nothing is certain. Nothing except that climate change changes everything. And for a very brief time the nature of that change is still up to us.

The Secure and the Dispossessed Nick Buxton, Ben Hayes, 2015-11-20 While the world's scientists and many of its inhabitants despair at the impact of climate change corporate and military leaders see nothing but opportunities For them melting ice caps mean newly accessible fossil fuels borders to be secured from climate refugees social conflicts to be managed and more failed states in which to intervene They are securing their assets at the expense of the planet and its inhabitants The Secure and the Dispossessed looks at these deadly approaches with a critical eye It also considers the flip side that the legitimacy of the elite is under unprecedented pressure from resistance by communities to resource grabs to those creating new ecological and socially just models for managing our energy food and water Topics covered include geoengineering militarism refugee protection greenwashing and the agricultural crisis among others Adaptation and resilience to a climate changed world is desperately needed but the form it will take will affect all of our futures
