

The background of the cover is a photograph of two people sitting on a patterned blanket, each holding a cup of coffee. The person on the left is wearing a dark jacket and holding a blue cup. The person on the right is wearing a brown sweater and holding a yellow cup. The scene is intimate and cozy.

Postcolonial Memory in the Netherlands Gerlov Engelenhoven,2025-10-01 This book is about postcolonial memory in the Netherlands This term refers to conflicts in contemporary society about how the colonial past should be remembered The question is often who has the right or ability to tell their stories and who do not In other words who has a voice and who is silenced As such these conflicts represent a wider tendency in cultural theory and activism to use voice as a metaphor for empowerment and silence as voice s negative counterpart signifying powerlessness And yet there are voices that do not liberate us from but rather subject us to power Meanwhile silence can be powerful it can protect disrupt and reconfigure Throughout this book it will become clear how voice and silence function not as each other s opposites but as each other s continuation and that postcolonial memory is articulated through the interplay of meaningful voices and meaningful silences

Between Mass Death and Individual Loss Alon Confino,Paul Betts,Dirk Schumann,2008-07-01 Recent years have witnessed growing scholarly interest in the history of death Increasing academic attention toward death as a historical subject in its own right is very much linked to its pre eminent place in 20th century history and Germany predictably occupies a special place in these inquiries This collection of essays explores how German mourning changed over the 20th century in different contexts with a particular view to how death was linked to larger issues of social order and cultural self understanding It contributes to a history of death in 20th century Germany that does not begin and end with the Third Reich
