mother off to Burma and when he and the climate between them had succeeded in killing her he made up for his appropriations at the cheapest rate by allowing me just enough to send me to Girton So when the Colonel died in the year I was leaving college I did not think it necessary to go into mourning for him Especially as he chose the precise moment when my allowance was due and bequeathed me nothing but his consolidated liabilities Of course you will teach said Elsie Petheridge when I explained my affairs to her There is a good demand just now for high school teachers I looked at her aghast Teach Elsie I cried I had come up to town to settle her in at her unfurnished lodgings Did you say teach That's just like you dear good schoolmistresses You go to Cambridge and get examined till the heart and life have been examined out of you then you say to yourselves at the end of it all Let me see what am I good for now I'm just about fit to go away and examine other people That's what our Principal would call a vicious circle if one could ever admit there was anything vicious at all about you dear No Elsie I do not propose to teach Nature did not cut me out for a high school teacher I couldn't swallow a poker if I tried for weeks Pokers don't agree with me Between ourselves I am a bit of a rebel You are Brownie she answered pausing in her papering with her sleeves rolled up they called me Brownie partly because of my dark complexion but partly because they could never understand me We all knew that long ago I laid down the paste brush and mu

Fiction & Books for the Young Denver Public Library, 1903 Finding List of Books Except Fiction Denver Public Library, 1903 Companion to Victorian Popular Fiction Kevin A. Morrison, 2018-10-29 This companion to Victorian popular fiction includes more than 300 cross referenced entries on works written for the British mass market Biographical sketches cover the writers and their publishers the topics that concerned them and the genres they helped to establish or refine Entries introduce readers to long overlooked authors who were widely read in their time with suggestions for further reading and emerging resources for the study of popular fiction

Sherlock's Sisters Joseph A. Kestner, 2017-03-02 Sherlock's Sisters The British Female Detective 1864 1913 examines the fictional female detective in Victorian and Edwardian literature This character originating in the 1860s configures a new representation of women in narratives of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries This analysis explores female empowerment through professional unofficial or official detection especially as this surveillance illuminates legal moral gendered institutional criminal punitive judicial political and familial practices This book considers a range of literary texts by both female and male writers which concentrate on detection by women particularly those which followed the creation of Sherlock Holmes by Arthur Conan Doyle in 1887 Cultural movements such as the emergence of the New Woman property law or suffragism are stressed in the exploits of these resourceful investigators These daring women deal with a range of crimes including murder blackmail terrorism forgery theft sexual harassment embezzlement fraud impersonation and domestic violence Privileging the exercise of reason rather than intuition these women detectives are proto feminist in their demonstration of women's independence Instead of being under the law these women transform it Their investigations are given particular edge because many of the perpetrators of these crimes are women Sherlock's Sisters probes many texts which because of their rarity have been under researched Writers such as Beatrice Heron Maxwell Emmuska Orczy L T Meade Catherine Pirkis Fergus Hume Grant Allen Leonard Merrick Marie Belloc Lowndes George Sims McDonnell Bodkin and Richard Marsh are here incorporated into the canon of Victorian and Edwardian literature many for the first time A writer such as Mary Elizabeth Braddon is reassessed through a neglected novel The book includes works by Irish and Australian writers to present an inclusive array of British texts Sherlock's Sisters enlarges the perception of emerging female empowerment during the nineteenth century filling an important gap in the fields of Gender Studies Law Literature and Popular Culture Grant Allen - Miss Cayley's Adventures Grant Allen, 2017-02-10 Charles Grant Blairfindie Allen was born on February 24th 1848 at Alwington near Kingston Canada West now part of Ontario Home schooled until 13 when his family moved to England Grant was to become a highly regarded science writer who branched out to a fiction career and became enormously popular His work helped propel several genres of fiction and whilst his career was short it was enormously productive Grant's scientific background enabled him to root much of his work in a plausibility that was denied to others He had little fear in challenging a society that treated women as second class citizens and creating best sellers from such works On October 25th 1899 Grant Allen died at his home in Hindhead Haslemere Surrey England He died just before finishing Hilda Wade The novel's final episode which he dictated to his friend doctor and neighbour Sir Arthur Conan Doyle from his bed appeared under the appropriate title The Episode of the Dead Man Who Spoke in 1900 The Strand Magazine, 1898 The Critic Jeannette Leonard Gilder, Joseph Benson Gilder, 1899 The Strand Magazine Sir George Newnes, 1898 Annual Literary Index, 1899 The Annual Literary Index, 1900 Miss Cayley's Adventures, Etc Grant Allen, 1903 Redefining the Modern Joseph Wiesenfarth, 2004 Redefining the Modern spans nearly a century and a half in a series of essays that capture the crucial shifts and transformations marking the change from the Victorian to the Modern period At the center of the collection is the understanding that literature responds to as well as initiates social intellectual and sometimes political change It also recognizes that historical categories like genres need to be realigned The diverse material ranges from Jane Austen's laughter to female detectives and black fiction It coheres however through its focus on the interaction of language and society and the way language and culture maintain a persistent and dynamic exchange Rather than deny links between one period and another this collection argues for continuity and development emphasizing revision and renewal rather than rejection and refusal No longer do critics accept fierce divides or unbridgeable paths between the work of the Victorians and moderns Recent approaches to the period reflecting gender cultural studies and new historicism provide fresh means of assessment Central to this reconception is the recognition that if the Victorians invented us we in turn h
