book looks at understanding how law works and how it could be made to work better and concludes that this demands both a knowledge of law and of law's context This theme offers a framework for the book which then goes on to deal with the machinery of the law and discusses what the courts do civil procedure and the ethics of lawyer's conduct all in relation to the broader context of access to justice This broader context of the law is particularly prominent in the latter half of the book which deals with various dimensions of the impact of the law Including studies of civil and social rights in practice the role of European law in the destruction of Aboriginal society in Australia and commercial law in Asia these examples raise issues about the gap between the law and reality the potential law has to destroy social patterns and the relationship between law and economic development This is a thought provoking critical exploration which has much to offer those interested in the operation of the civil justice system
