The Status of Student Involvement in University Governance in Kenya Mulinge, Munyae M., Arasa, Josephine N., 2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya

Sustainable Use of Water Resources Müfit Bahadır, 2017-01-27 According to the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs water is the limiting agent in sustainable development and is critical to all socio economic aspects of human welfare including security energy food and health issues It is essential for the production and preservation of foodstuff is a host of benefits and services for people and plays a key role in strengthening the resilience of social economic and environmental systems in the light of rapid and unpredictable changes However water can also pose serious challenges to sustainable development if not managed efficiently and equitably In the past many water related workshops and conferences have been held all over the world however the here reported one is the first expert workshop integrating social economic and engineering scientists practitioners and policy makers in in the field of sustainable water management in Sub Saharan Africa region In addition the subject of the workshop Sustainable Use of Water Resources addresses the challenges outlined in the Kenyan Vision 2030 programs Additionally Africa s rising population is the driving force of the demand for water and accelerates the degradation of water resources in many countries on the continent Current research has projected that almost all African countries will face either absolute or economic water scarcity by 2025 The main objective of the workshop was to share experiences knowledge and research outcomes among experts of water and environment and to discuss major problems and challenges in the field of sustainable water management in Sub Saharan Africa Region It also aimed i to improve the understandings of the interrelationship between SDGs and the Integrated Water Resources Management IWRM to identify the current trends in water management practices and their shortcomings iii to establish a Sub Saharan Africa Network of water experts and iv to identify promising areas of future research for the Sub Saharan Africa Region

Kenyas Past as Prologue Marie-Aude Fouere,Susan Mwangi,2015-06-16 During the run up to Kenyas 2013 general elections crucial political and civic questions were raised Could past mistakes especially political and ethnic related violence be avoided this time round Would the spectre of the 2007 post electoral violence positively or negatively affect debates and voting How would politicians electoral bodies such as the IEBC the Kenyan civil society and the international community weigh in on the elections More generally would the 2013 elections bear witness to the building up of an electoral culture in Kenya characterized by free and fair elections or would it show that voting is still weakened by political malpractices partisan opinions and emotional reactions Would Kenyas past be inescapable or would it prepare the scene for a new political order Kenyas Past as Prologue adopts a multidisciplinary perspective mainly built upon field based ethnography and a selection of case studies to answer these questions Under the leadership of the French Institute for Research in Africa Institut francais de recherche en Afrique IFRA political scientists historians and anthropologists explore various aspects of the electoral process to contribute in depth analyses of the last elections They highlight the structural factors underlying election and voting in Kenya including the political system culture and political transition They also interrogate the short term trends and issues that influence the new political order The book provides insight into specific case studies situations and contexts thus bringing nuances and diversity into focus to better assess Kenyas evolving electoral democracy
