Nursing Information Bureau, 1943      Caring Costs Revisited James Buchan, Ian J. Seccombe, Jane Ball, 1996

Nursing costs and quality are central to the effective operation of the NHS yet many practitioners find it difficult to evaluate the effects of changes in nurses employment and deployment This book updates the 1991 review of research on the value of nursing It examines published research which evaluates the costs and or benefits of employing registered nursing staff The report also presents the results of a national survey of nurse directors which explores changing aspects of nurses employments and deployment and which considers the effects of such changes on the costs and quality of nursing care      A Comparison of the Nursing Costs Associated with the Implementation of the Mandated Nurse-to-patient Ratios in California Shelly Carol Wells, Thad Wilson, 2009

Nurse executives are challenged to provide adequate nurse staffing to prevent adverse patient outcomes promote patient satisfaction and enhance nurses job satisfaction Historically nurse staffing strategies have involved the use of patient classification systems the use of time studies to predict staffing numbers and the best guesses of the nurse administrators Collective bargaining units moved to include staffing ceilings or nurse to patient ratios to address staffing needs in hospitals In 1999 the state of California signed AB394 into law requiring the implementation of mandated minimum nurse to patient ratios The California Department of Health Services estimated that the mandated nurse to patient ratios would cost California hospitals 956 million annually after implementation given adequate recruiting sources CHA 2004 While this estimate was made prior to the known fiscal impact of the ratios no study has been published addressing the actual costs differences to the hospitals of the mandated nurse to patient ratios that were implemented in 2004 As other states consider introducing legislation to implement the staffing ratios as California has done the impact of these costs should be revealed The aim of this study was to examine the impact on nursing costs expressed as a percentage of hospital operating costs from before the staffing ratios in California were implemented 2002 and after the staffing ratios were implemented 2006 Two hundred eighty two hospitals were included in this study Financial and productivity data were obtained from the Office of Statewide Health Planning and Development in California Examination of the percentage of total hospital operating costs attributed to nursing costs shed light on the fiscal impact of the mandated nurse to patient ratios in California Results demonstrated that there was significant difference in the percentage of total hospital operating costs attributed to Registered Nurse costs and to overall nursing costs There was no significant difference in the percentage of total hospital operating costs attributed to the costs for the licensed vocational nurse In addition there were no significant differences noted in the level of unit support staff aides orderlies technicians clerical after the implementation of the ratios
