Annual Performance Plan Mpumalanga (South Africa). Department of Education, 2015 This Week in South Africa, 1995 Educational Change in South Africa, 2019-02-11 The literature on Educational Change has been dominated by research published in the established liberal democracies This volume examines Educational Change in South Africa a country undergoing rapid social and political change and situated geographically historically and culturally in the South What are the meanings and processes of change How do we explain the contours and contexts of change What has changed What has remained the same Reflections on School Integration Mokubung O. Nkomo, Carolyn McKinney, Linda Chisholm, 2004 School integration means among other things that the divisions created by apartheid need to be addressed systematically and systemically Integration is not merely about changing the racial demographics of learner and educator bodies It means schools changing to meet the needs of all children fostering meaningful interaction among learners in the classroom on the playground and in extra mural activities as well as instilling a human rights culture It means constructing curricula texts and pedagogies that are informed by a democratic ethos and it requires teachers school managers and communities that are equipped to promote a democratic school environment In short it is about inclusivity and social cohesion And the issue of integration is as pertinent internationally as it is in South Africa questions of race racism citizenship and diversity are central to school systems throughout the world This book contains the proceedings of a colloquium held in October 2003 attended by leading South African and international researchers to take stock of the status quo in school integration and identify new directions research should be taking to support the process of change
