Shaw, Nancy Staton Barbour, Patti Duncan Ph.D., Kryn Freehling-Burton Ph.D., Jane Nichols, 2018-01-04 Providing an in depth look at the lives of women and girls in approximately 150 countries this multivolume reference set offers readers transnational and postcolonial analysis of the many issues that are critical to the success of women and girls. For millennia women around the world have shouldered the responsibility of caring for their families. But in recent decades women have emerged as a major part of the global workforce balancing careers and family life. How did this change happen? And how are societies in developing countries responding and adapting to women's newer roles in society? This four-volume encyclopedia examines the lives of women around the world with coverage that includes the education of girls and teens, the key roles women play in their families, careers, religions, and cultures, how issues for women intersect with colonialism, transnationalism, feminism, and established norms of power and control. Organized geographically, each volume presents detailed entries about the lives of women in particular countries. Additionally, each volume offers sidebars that spotlight topics related to women and girls in specific regions or focus on individual women's lives and contributions. Primary source documents include sections of countries' constitutions that are relevant to women and girls, United Nations resolutions and national resolutions regarding women and girls, and religious statements and proclamations about women and girls. The organization of the set enables readers to take an in-depth look at individual countries as well as to make comparisons across countries.

The Skills Balancing Act in Sub-Saharan Africa Omar Arias, David K. Evans, Indhira Santos, 2019-01-31. Despite strong recent economic growth, Sub-Saharan Africa has levels of economic transformation, poverty reduction, and skill development far below those of other regions. Smart investments in developing skills aligned with the policy goals of productivity, growth, inclusion, and adaptability can help to accelerate the region's economic transformation in the 21st century. Sub-Saharan Africa's growing working-age population presents a major opportunity to increase shared prosperity. Countries in the region have invested heavily in building skills; public expenditure on education increased sevenfold over the past 30 years, and more children are in school today than ever before. Yet systems for building skills in this population have fallen short, and these shortcomings significantly impede economic prospects. In half of the countries, fewer than two in every three children complete primary school; even fewer reach and complete higher levels of education. Learning outcomes have been persistently poor, leading to substantial gaps in basic cognitive skills, literacy, and numeracy among children, young people, and adults. The literacy rate of the adult population is below 50 percent in many countries; functional literacy and numeracy rates are even lower. Systemwide change is required to achieve significant progress. Multiple agencies at the central and local levels are involved in skills development strategies, making skills everyone's problem, but no one's responsibility. Policies and reforms need to build capacity for evidence-based policies and create incentives to align the behaviors of all stakeholders with the pursuit of national skills development goals. The Skills Balancing Act in Sub-Saharan Africa: Investing in Skills for Productivity, Inclusivity, and Adaptability lays out evidence to inform the policy choices that countries will make in skill investments. Each chapter addresses a set of specific questions drawing on original analysis and synthesis of existing studies to explore key areas: How the skills appropriate to each stage of the life cycle are acquired and what market and institutional failures affect skills formation. What systems are needed for individuals to access these skills including family investments, private sector institutions, schools and other public programs. How those systems can be strengthened. How the most vulnerable individuals, those who fall outside the standard systems, have missed critical building blocks in skills acquisition can be supported. Countries will face trade offs, often stark ones that will have distributional impacts and a bearing on their development path. Committed leaders, reform coalitions and well coordinated policies are essential for taking on the skills balancing act in Sub-Saharan Africa. Education Statistics, 2017

Science Education in Context Richard K. Coll, Neil Taylor, 2019-02-18. This book presents an international perspective of the influence of educational context on science education. The focus is on the interactions between curriculum development and implementation, particularly in non-Western and non-English speaking contexts, i.e. outside the UK, USA, Australia, NZ, etc. An important and distinguishing feature of the book is that it draws upon the experiences and research from local experts from an extremely diverse cohort across the world, 26 countries in total. The book addresses topics such as curriculum development, research or evaluation of an implemented curriculum, discussion of pressures driving curriculum reform or implementation of new curricula, e.g. technology or environmental education, the influence of political, cultural, societal or religious mores on education, governmental or ministerial drives for curriculum reform, economic or other pressures driving curriculum reform, the influence of external assessment regimes on curriculum, and so on. Primary School Leaving Certificate Examination Papers Malawi National Examinations Board, 1985. Preparing for Examination Work-book G. An International Discussion focuses on formal and official evaluation of school learning and student achievement at the time schooling is discontinued. The book is based on the proceedings of the 1977 Conference of the International Association for Educational Assessment held at the Kenyatta Conference Center in Nairobi, Kenya, on May 23-28, 1977. The selection first discusses school leaving examinations as a function of external and educational factors and the terms of reference for school leaving examinations. The book also takes a look at the comparability of grading standards in public examinations in England and Wales, basic assessment issues in school leaving examination programs, and the case for school leaving examinations in The Netherlands. The text reviews the alternatives to school leaving examinations in Sweden and Brazil, as well as the abolition of final examination transition from secondary school to higher education and support structures. The book also ponders on the structure of secondary school systems in Austria, Australia, Bermuda, Cyprus, Hong Kong, India, and Ireland. The selection is a dependable reference for readers interested in school learning and student achievement measurements. Evaluation of the Primary School Leaving Examination in Malawi Catherine Chimwenje, 1993.
