

MARK SCHEME for the October/November 2013 series

9709/33

9709 MATHEMATICS

Paper 3, maximum raw mark 75

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge is publishing the mark schemes for the October/November 2013 series for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level components and some Ordinary Level components.

Functional Characterization of Insect Chemoreceptors: Receptivity Range, Expression and Evolution William B. Walker, Emmanuelle Jacquin-Joly, Sharon R. Hill, 2016-06-11 Olfaction and taste are of critical importance to insects and other animals since vital behaviours including mate food and host seeking as well as predator and toxin avoidance are guided by chemosensory cues Mate and habitat choice are to a large extent determined by chemical signals and chemoreceptors contribute accordingly to pre mating isolation barriers and speciation In addition to fundamental physiological ecological and evolutionary consideration the knowledge of insect taste and especially olfaction is also of great importance to human economies since it facilitates a more informed approach to the management of insect pests of agricultural crops and forests and insect vectors of disease Chemoreceptors which bind to external chemical signals and then transform and send the sensory information to the brain are at the core of the peripheral olfactory and gustatory system and have thus been the focus of recent research in chemical ecology Specifically emphasis has been placed on functional characterization of olfactory receptor genes which are derived from three large gene families namely the odorant receptors gustatory receptors and ionotropic receptors Spatial expression patterns of olfactory receptors in diverse chemosensory tissues provide information on divergent functions with regards to ecologically relevant behaviours On the other hand characterization of olfactory receptor activation profiles or deorphanization provides complimentary data on the molecular range of receptivity to the fundamental unit of the olfactory sense The aim of this Research Topic is to give an update on the breadth and depth of research currently in progress related to understanding the molecular mechanisms of insect chemoreception with specific emphasis on the olfactory receptors High-Performance Modelling and Simulation for Big Data Applications Joanna Kołodziej, Horacio González-Vélez, 2019-03-25 This open access book was prepared as a Final Publication of the COST Action IC1406 High Performance Modelling and Simulation for Big Data Applications cHiPSet project Long considered important pillars of the scientific method Modelling and Simulation have evolved from traditional discrete numerical methods to complex data intensive continuous analytical optimisations Resolution scale and accuracy have become essential to predict and analyse natural and complex systems in science and engineering When their level of abstraction raises to have a better discernment of the domain at hand their representation gets increasingly demanding for computational and data resources On the other hand High Performance Computing typically entails the effective use of parallel and distributed processing units coupled with efficient storage communication and visualisation systems to underpin complex data intensive applications in distinct scientific and technical domains It is then arguably required to have a seamless interaction of High Performance Computing with Modelling and Simulation in order to store compute analyse and visualise large data sets in science and engineering Funded by the European Commission cHiPSet has provided a dynamic trans European forum for their members and distinguished guests to openly discuss novel perspectives and topics of interests for these two communities This cHiPSet compendium presents a set of selected case studies related to healthcare biological data computational advertising multimedia finance bioinformatics and telecommunications Federal Register, 2013

Charged Particles in Oncology Marco Durante, Francis A. Cucinotta, Jay S. Loeffler, 2018-01-31 High energy charged particles represent a cutting edge technique in radiation oncology Protons and carbon ions are used in several centers all over the world for the treatment of different solid tumors Typical indications are ocular malignancies tumors of the base of the skull hepatocellular carcinomas and various sarcomas The physical characteristics of the charged particles Bragg peak allow sparing of much more normal tissues than it is possible using conventional X rays and for this reason all pediatric tumors are considered eligible for protontherapy Ions heavier than protons also display special radiobiological characteristics which make them effective against radioresistant and hypoxic tumors On the other hand protons and ions with high charge Z and energy HZE particles represent a major risk for human space exploration The main late effect of radiation exposure is cancer induction and at the moment the dose limits for astronauts are based on cancer mortality risk The Mars Science Laboratory MSL measured the dose on the route to Mars and on the planet's surface suggesting that a human exploration missions will exceed the radiation risk limits Notwithstanding many studies on carcinogenesis induced by protons and heavy ions the risk uncertainty remains very high In this research topic we aim at gathering the experiences and opinions of scientists dealing with high energy charged particles either for cancer treatment or for space radiation protection Clinical results with protons and heavy ions as well as research in medical physics and pre clinical radiobiology are reported In addition ground based and spaceflight studies on the effects of space radiation are included in this book Particularly relevant for space studies are the clinical results on normal tissue complications and second cancers The eBook nicely demonstrates that particle therapy in oncology and protection of astronauts from space radiation share many common topics and can learn from each other
