This two volume set discusses recent approaches and technological innovations for sustainable agriculture in smallholder farming systems impacted by climate change. The systems covered include crop based agricultural production as well as aquaculture and livestock production as related systems using similar techniques to combat food security issues brought about by climate change and resource overuse. The chapters detail innovations involving crop diversification, soil resilience, management, geoinformatics, and land suitability monitoring for smart farming, information technology in livestock production, and nutrient resource management in fishery aquaculture. Researchers, practitioners, and industries will be able to use this information to implement socially and economically sustainable practices to achieve food security in impoverished areas vulnerable to climate change while also learning about the rapid evolution in information technology that is applicable for and available to small holder farmers. Volume 2 focuses on trends and technologies in food security within the context of sustainable practices, drone technology, microwave data, molecular farming, machine learning, agricultural economics, spatial modeling, and agricultural policy. These chapters discuss advancements in fishery resource and aquaculture practices and also the challenges facing these areas due to climate change.

A Handbook for Value Chain Research Raphael; Morris Kaplinsky (Mike), 2000. Diagnostics for Industrial Value Chain Development, 2011. Promoting industrial value chains in developing countries is a promising approach to foster economic development, create jobs, and induce inclusive growth while addressing social and environmental issues. However, such promotion requires understanding of the status of development in the value chain and the complex linkages among its actors and with the socio-political environment. This publication assists analysts and decision makers in obtaining a complete picture of the status quo in a given value chain using rapid data collection and analysis methods. This type of diagnostic is useful at any point of value chain development: at the outset when choosing the value chain during the analysis phase and later during implementation, monitoring, evaluation, and adjustment.

Strengthening Industry Value Chains V. Padmanand, 2007. Value chain transformation: Taking stock of WorldFish research on value chains and markets Kruijssen, F., Audet-Belanger, G., Choudhury, A., Crissman, C., Dalsgaard, J.P.T., Dawson, C., Dickson, M., Genschick, S., Islam, M.M., Kaminski, A., Keus, H.J., McDougall, C., Banda, L.E., Muyaule, C., Rajaratnam, S., 2016-07-12. The goal of WorldFish's research on markets and value chains is to increase the benefits to resource poor people from fisheries and aquaculture value chains by researching 1) key barriers to resource poor men, women, and other marginalized groups gaining greater benefits from participation in value chains, including barriers related to the availability, affordability, and quality of nutrient rich fish for resource poor consumers; 2) interventions to overcome those barriers; and 3) mechanisms that are most effective for scaling up of value chain interventions. This paper aims to promote and document learning across WorldFish's value chain research efforts in Asia and Africa. It has three main objectives: 1) to take stock of WorldFish's past and ongoing research on value chains; 2) to draw out commonalities and differences between these projects; and 3) to provide a synthesis of some learning that can guide future work.
