evaluate cause and effect and predict what is likely to happen in the future Along the way we learn how a misinterpretation of a probability contributed to the infamous Bay of Pigs fiasco why a ship twice the size of the Titanic sank without a trace and why we can be so confident that no two properly shuffled decks of cards have ever been in the same order Sparkling with wit and fascinating real world examples this is an essential guide to navigating uncertainty while also retaining the humility to admit what we don't or simply cannot know

The Official Index to the Financial Times ,2003 Education by Numbers Warwick Mansell, 2007 It sounded a noble aim for New Labour to prioritise education The method they chose since coming to power was a relentless attempt to raise standards by an obsession with tests and exams in every school almost at every level Warwick Mansell researches the subject in detail and reveals how intention and practice differ so widely

School Accountability Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Children, Schools and Families Committee, 2010 This report considers the roles of a variety of different agents for accountability in the English school system The first part examines self evaluation self improvement partners and local authorities Schools have increasingly been encouraged to formalise the self evaluation process as part of their improvement strategy They are assisted in their self evaluation and improvement processes by School Improvement Partners SIPs who are appointed by the local authority School provision is commissioned by local authorities who also have a remit to monitor local schools performance The report then focuses on the work of Ofsted School inspection reports are a major source of information about a school's performance and inspection is often the trigger for a school to address its performance issues The report then looks at the Achievement and Attainment Tables formerly known as performance tables The tables have been the subject of controversy for many years because although they do not actually rank schools according to their performance in national examinations they permit others especially the media to do so Critics argue that they give only a partial view of a school's overall performance and the proposed School Report Card is an attempt to address this issue by providing more information on a wider range of performance indicators The school accountability process has become very complex with new programmes and policies emerging piecemeal from central government There are concerns about the consistency of approach in such a complex system And are schools really free to drive their own improvement given that they are still subject to programmes devised and applied by central government

Cairo Times , 2004-03      Education under Siege Mortimore, Peter, 2013-09-23 At a time when education is considered crucial to a country's economic success recent UK governments have insisted their reforms are the only way to make England's system world class Yet pupils are tested rather than educated teachers bullied rather than trusted and parents cast as winners or losers in a gamble for school places Education under siege considers the English education system as it is and as it might be In a highly accessible style Peter Mortimore an author with wide experience of the education sector both in the UK and abroad identifies the current system's strengths and weaknesses He concludes that England has some of the best teachers in the world but one of the most muddled systems Challenging the government's view that there is no alternative he proposes radical changes to help all schools become good schools They include a system of schools receiving a fair balance of pupils who learn easily and those who do not ensuring a more even spread of effective teachers as well as banning league tables outlawing selection opening up faith schools and integrating private schools into the state system In the final chapter he asks readers who share his concerns to demand that the politicians alter course The book will appeal to parents education students and teachers as well as everyone interested in the future education of our children      GCSE
