Materialities of Age and Ageing: Concepts of a Material Gerontology Grit Höppner, Monika Urban, 2019-06-18 In gerontological research the understanding of age and ageing changed in the last decade Biologic determined explanations no longer prevail in this research field Instead ideas of social constructivism are frequently used These ideas define the state of age and the process of ageing as social constructions steeping ageing in social and cultural assumptions ascriptions and expectations From a social constructivist perspective age and ageing are not just identified as dependency deficit and need for care as it was foremost accelerated from a biological perspective but with the life course and thus with individual lifestyles experiences attitudes and practices as well as institutional and economic structures A prominent social constructivist concept is doing age Similar to doing gender the concept of doing age assumes age as taking place in the form of a social praxis within everyday life interactions between people and thus in performances embedded in discourses through which social hierarchies and ideals proceed Despite the paradigm shift that social constructivist concepts enable in gerontological thinking they reveal their blind spot when it comes to the materiality of ageing and thus to fleshy sensual experiences human and non human ontologies and agencies Addressing these materialities of ageing brings up its own critique on definitions of ageing bodies and material environments This framing does not presume that age and ageing are solely products of human to human interactions or those of formative environments or of discourses Rather humans non humans and discourses become essential parts of ageing processes Such a material framing enables us new insights into forms of age and ageing and thus offers an opportunity for scholars to engage critically with materialities of age and ageing This eBook explores theoretical methodological and empirical concepts of such a Material Gerontology Innovations in Development, Translational Research and Manufacturing of CAR T cells Michael Hudecek,Qasim Rafiq,Stephen Goldrick,Ulrike Koehl,Helene Negre,Carmen Sanges,2024-10-03 Immunotherapy with genetically engineered immune cell products is a transformative treatment modality with potential applications in various fields of medicine A prime example is chimeric antigen receptor CAR modified T cells in hematology and oncology and the advent of CAR T cell therapies to treat infectious diseases autoimmune disorders and cardiovascular diseases The medical need and demand from patients and caregivers require radical innovations to accelerate and improve pre clinical development and clinical translation provision of gene transfer vectors and immune cell product manufacturing as well as a critical reflection and discussion on ethical and socioeconomic aspects The goal of this special issue of Frontiers in Immunology is to provide a comprehensive and multi faceted view on the current state of the art imminent and future directions the field is taking in order to accelerate the pre clinical development clinical translation and manufacturing of CAR T cells increase access and sustainability of CAR T cell therapy for health care systems in developed and in developing countries This special issue will focus on the medical and scientific dimension incl approved and emerging indications new areas in medicine advanced gene transfer and gene editing technologies innovations in pre clinical assessment efficacy toxicology genomic safety innovations in scalable automated manufacturing bioprocessing the implementation of high content data acquisition machine learning and artificial intelligence innovations in clinical trial design and consider the ethical socioeconomic and societal dimension of CAR T cells in particular and gene engineered immune cell therapy in general Australian Books in Print 1995 Thorpe, D.
